IN THE DAYS when the world was new, according to an ancient historian, there were too many gadflies, about as many as there are today. But in those early days, with all the encouragement that was given them, they multiplied with incredible rapidity. And the gads of each generation were longer and sharper than those of their forbears.

Finally, one of the seers went to the mountain tops to pray about it, a complaining prayer.

"Oh, Yahweh," he prayed, for this happened in the Euphrates valley milleniums ago, "Oh, Yahweh, consider ye the gadfly!" He described the suffering they had brought to his people, and to the animals of his people. He left no argument unsaid which might possibly influence the great Yahweh to exterminate the gadfly. And in a voice of thunder Yahweh answered: "I will destroy no life I have made!" From that stern edict there was no appeal, and the seer went back to his people.

BUT THE GADFLIES gave no one peace, not even the seer, and in desperation once more he took himself to the mountain top. To all he had told before he added tales of the sordid, miserable lives of Yahweh's people, blaming it all on the gadfly. And Yahweh this time thundered back: "Ye may destroy the gadfly! Go!" Happy, the seer went back to his valley only to find that no one knew how to exterminate the gadfly. Many unhappy days later he returned to the ante-chamber of the god. This time he pleaded not to destroy, merely to change the gadfly into something less evil. And Yahweh's heart, not being of stone, was touched. He asked: "Into what, then, shall I change the gadfly?" The sage thought quickly of his lush valley, and of the robbers on the desert to the south, and of the wicked tribes to the east. Then thinking of the protection countless men would bring to his valley he answered, "Oh, Yahweh, make them into men!"

Yahweh did as the sage directed, and thus, declares the ancient historian, were critics brought into the world.

FOR EVERY ONE who receives an innovation with an open mind, there are a thousand who resent the destruction of time-honored devices, comfortable old ways of doing things. To this latter group we address a word in this introduction.

The organization that has been attempted in this book was not born of a desire to strike cross-grain of tradition. Those who are familiar with the work of the master printers of the renaissance will see that what knowledge of the graphic arts which we possess has been used in a traditional manner. The structural letters which twentieth century Europe has contributed to the field of typography have been avoided, although they carry in their simple forceful lines the truest spirit of modern artistry. Let someone in years to come use Girder or Futura, or the descendants of these simple, masterful designs; machine-cast Garamond will have to serve us. And we have tried to make a format which is in harmony with Garamond.

IN PREPARING THIS format a few obvious problems, many subtle problems had to be solved. These same problems in a greater or lesser degree will be faced by everyone who makes a book. Not until everyone has read and re-read countless pages to find and re-unite split infinitives, to give some degree of uniformity to the text; perhaps not until everyone has made a book will sympathy instead of censure be extended the editor.

From those who neither approve nor disapprove of the annual we beg a second glance. For those who like, if only in part, what we have done, we are thankful. And to those who will find wholesale fault with all that we have assembled we can only re-tell the ancient story written three thousand years ago in the Euphrates valley, and beg them not to let unfamiliarity breed contempt.

I N T R O D U C T I O N

TO PRODUCE a well-made book with consistent style and attractive format, that was the problem we set before ourselves at the beginning of the year. It was our own idea; no one suggested such a program to us, some even discouraged it. To make such a book would require careful planning and a great deal of labor. We faced both of these prospects with pleasure, glad of the opportunity to present many varied ideas, to set each of them in appropriate typographical surroundings and to include all of them in the forty-second volume of the Index of Illinois State Normal University.

We were glad of a chance to rummage among the records left by early students and faculty members. In searching through these records with our historian and associate editor, Miss Butz, we found explanations for some of Normal's traditions, a few of its customs; we uncovered biographies of its founders and the teachers for whom this building or that has been named. A few highlights, those for which pictures were found, have been entered in the history which is placed first in this volume published during the seventy-fifth year of Illinois' oldest state school of higher education.

Proceeding from an informally organized history, with now and then a page layout patterned after the more formal pages to come, to the carefully checked Faculty and Organization section, we find the first real suggestion of formalism in the book.

From this, progression to the formal, rigid style displayed in the large album sections is easy. Here are included the classes from Seniors to Freshmen, each underclassmen's name, home address and curriculum being given. In connection with this section it is only fair to explain that amateur journalism is never free from errors, and not even professional journalists are always able to avoid them. We apologize for the mistakes which have been made, some of them we discovered only too late to change. At those of a serious nature we pray no one will take offense.

FOLLOWING THIS section is a Features Album of which we are quite proud. To our way of thinking an album section of this type is the sort of thing the whole annual should be. Every outstanding student, not merely a select list, should be placed in a pictorial honor roll, such as the Features Album includes. In addition those men and women who are in intercollegiate competition should be written about in that place. To the best of our ability we have tried to make a fair cross-section of the school life at Old Normal and present it in this series of Albums. Whether in this person's or that person's opinion we have failed does not matter nearly so much as the fact that here we really have tried to prepare and publish an all-school section.

The Features Album is followed by the somewhat unmanageable Events Section. In attempting to bring together so many heterogeneous subjects as appear in this section; in trying to present each subject in its proper proportion, the failures and successes are quite obvious. It should be added, in all fairness to the editors of this department, that some of the pictures left out were not to be had in time for the engraving deadline, and some of those published were grudgingly posed for—there being a faun-like timidity native to some members of the school organization.

IT IS BUT A TURN of the page from the Events Section to the last part, a short Memory Book in which snapshots, views and space for writing will be found. If there are too few pages for autographs in this annual, let each subscriber furnish his countless friends with writing paper slightly smaller than the page size of this book, and on that paper have them write the sometimes absurdly long, sentimental paragraphs, so often written in annual autograph sections. These will be stapled into any book free of charge if the owner will apply to the editor with his collection.

IN THIS PLACE we thank the many people who have worked with us this year. Joseph G. Hawkins of Hawkins Studios, who at all times was ready to work with the staff, and whose excellent work enabled us to produce the many superior illustrations printed in the following pages, should be mentioned first. Owen R. Marsh, who supervised production of the annual's printing plates, and Minor L. Smith of Hartman Printing Company, who with Mr. Marsh helped prepare the book for press, also deserve our thanks. In the actual production of the book, Frank J. Meidel, Carl Bahlw, and John Kreppert were the men in charge, and merit our sincere appreciation. And, too, the work of our staff members, some of whom have worked wholeheartedly, some of whom have tried to work, is herewith acknowledged.

FOR OUR PART, at the end of a year of rather intensive activity, we feel that if we have silenced a few of the arguments often advanced against college annual publication, if we have demonstrated in a small way that an annual may be more than a pretentious catalog of faces with a pseudo-theme substituted for typography, this book deserves consideration and our efforts will not have been as vain as we sometimes are led to believe they are.

IN 1848 THE NEW constitution of the State of Illinois was framed. It provided a state tax of two mills on the dollar annually to be levied for the support of the common schools. The movement toward free public schools in Illinois had won its first major victory. During the next five years, successful free schools were established in widely scattered parts of the state, creating by their success a popularity that made them the "demand of the hour."

Many of the better teachers of these schools, who had come to Illinois from older states, had been trained in colleges and academies. New England Normal Schools, already several years old, were responsible for the training of a number of these teachers. A prospective teacher had either to be able to attend school in the east or to forego any real professional training.

This situation resulted in a conference of all friends of free schools in Bloomington, Illinois, during late December, 1853, at which conference it was proposed to establish an Illinois Normal School.

From 1853 to 1856 discussions at similar meetings and the annual State Teachers' Institute centered around three proposals: first that an institution for the sole purpose of training teachers be established; second, that either an Industrial University with a Normal Department be started, or that an Agriculture Department be attached to the Normal School of the first proposal; third, that Normal Departments be added by the state to each of the sectarian colleges already established in Illinois, thus avoiding separation of education and religion.

This triangular discussion became so bitter that, in order to accomplish anything at all, a resolution was finally adopted stating that the Teachers' Association, formerly the Teachers' Institute, would hereafter occupy itself solely with "the interests of the common schools and Normal Schools."

THUS THE MATTER stood in 1856. When the Illinois State Teachers' Association, meeting in Chicago, drafted a resolution demanding immediate establishment of a State Normal School for the education of teachers.

On February 18, 1857, an act to this effect was passed by the state legislature.

THE NORMAL SCHOOL BILL

JESSE FELL

Soon after Bloomington, Illinois, was settled Fell came there to deal in land. Twenty-five years later, between 1855 and 1857, he bought controlling interest in the attractive addition to Bloomington, located at the "Junction."

As one of the compromise measures a state board of education was appointed to "fix the permanent location of said Normal School at the place where the most favorable inducements are offered for that purpose, provided such location shall not be difficult of access or detrimental to the welfare and prosperity of said Normal University."

THREE YEARS BEFORE the Normal School Bill was passed, with its compromise clause stipulating ease of access to the location of the new Normal School, railroads in Illinois had developed to the point where many towns once isolated by seas of mud now had daily contacts with their neighbors. From Mendota to Mound City, more than two hundred fifty miles, the right of way of the Illinois Central, one of the early town-linking railways, cut the prairie in a straight line from north to south. As early as 1853 this line ran through Bloomington, and was in daily use. From its terminal in Chicago the Chicago and Alton right of way proceeded diagonally across the state toward St. Louis. The part of this road that runs through Bloomington was completed in 1854.

From the start both roads owned stations in Bloomington, but chance, or surveyors, had it that their tracks intersected a mile north of the city on a piece of ground attractive in itself but isolated from Bloomington by a number of sloughs and creeks and having its full share of swamp land.

At this junction of two railways, somewhat removed from Bloomington, Jesse Fell and a group of realtors saw fit to start an addition called North Bloomington. Even optimistic speculators could see little future for such a project; only thirty lots, at insignificant prices, were purchased in the sale held by Fell's company on the 15th of June, 1854. But Fell had mighty hopes.

FROM THE VERY first attempts were made to secure only respectable citizens for the addition. In the deed to every lot sold in North Bloomington there was a clause forbidding the sale of intoxicants on the premises.

As early as 1855 Fell built his own home in this addition and began unsuccessful attempts to found a Seminary near there. Naturally when the legislature established the Normal School in 1857, Jesse Fell was interested, very much interested, in its location. So was Charles E. Hovey of Peoria, so were a number of others in McLean County, Tazewell County, Peoria County.

During the month of April, 1857, a period of competition between several vicinities to see which could secure the permanent location of the Normal School by offering the most inducements in cash and land donations, a group in McLean County under the leadership of Fell made countless personal calls on this merchant and that farmer, thereby raising a subscription of considerable size.

THREE OTHER BIDDERS anxious to secure the Normal School's location were Batavia, Washington, and Peoria. May 7, 1857, the School Board of the State of Illinois met at Peoria to consider the bids of the four communities named above.

"... Batavia's offer in land and cash totals forty-five thousand dollars," read Ninian W. Edwards, chairman of the meeting.

"Washington offers twenty thousand dollars and the Washington Academy building,

SIMEON WRIGHT

As agent of the Illinois Teachers Association in 1857 Wright, a member of the State Board of Education, was paid fifteen hundred dollars and expenses to "preach an educational revival" throughout the state, thereby turning attention toward the new Normal.

which is in good repair but not in use," he read. There was a pause; Bloomington's bid was opened, the stiff papers crackled. Charles E. Hovey of Peoria sat confident. The Bloomington bid stood the best chance of rivaling Peoria's, but when last compared had not exceeded it.

"... a piece of ground attractive in itself but isolated from Bloomington by a number of sloughs and creeks, and having its full share of swamp land ..."

PRINCIPAL CHARLES EDWARD HOVEY

Charles Hovey was prominent in the field of education in Illinois. A member of the State Board of Education, first Superintendent of Schools at Peoria and first regular editor of the ILLINOIS TEACHER he commanded the respect of those pioneers who had it in them to be respectful. From the beginning he cherished the hope of founding the Illinois Normal School, preparing its curriculum, choosing its faculty and planning its building. In spite of the fact that he had worked with the Peoria faction in the competition for locating the school he was chosen its first principal. With the aid of many volunteer helpers, each with his own idea of what a Normal School should be, Hovey began immediately to plan.

From 1857 until 1860 nothing but the architect's plans and this drawing showed what the third floor and tower of the Normal would resemble.

NINIAN W. EDWARDS adjusted his glasses, cleared his throat importantly, and read:

"The offer of the City of Bloomington and McLean County, gentlemen, in land and cash subscriptions amounts to one hundred forty-one thousand five hundred twenty-five dollars!" Hovey knew the school was lost for Peoria; the Peoria bid totaled a mere eighty thousand.

The cautious State Board located the school in McLean County on condition that the subscription of seventy thousand dollars made by private citizens of the county be guaranteed, thus ensuring the gift of an additional seventy thousand dollars' worth of county-owned swamp land. Lawyer Abraham Lincoln, a close friend of Fell's drew up this guaranty.

MORE THAN TWENTY-SIX thousand dollars of the McLean County subscription had been pledged on condition that the school be located within three quarters of a mile of the "Junction" called North Bloomington. The sum was too large to be ignored.

The new building, therefore, was planned to occupy the north end of Joseph Payne's and Meshack Pike's long, sixty-acre cornfield out near the "Junction."

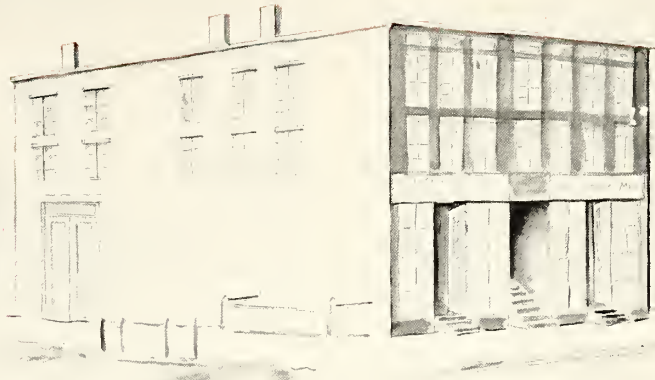

The cornerstone was laid in the southeast corner of the foundation September 29, 1857, and Principal Hovey promised that the building would be completed "within a year."

MAJOR'S HALL

"The first session of the State Normal University commenced in Major's Hall yesterday. About twenty-five scholars were in attendance."
—Complete item, Daily Pantagraph, October 6, 1857.

Principal Hovey's report shows that by the end of the first week forty-three persons had enrolled. Of this number twenty-nine were women.

IN DECEMBER, 1857, all building activity on the new school in North Bloomington stopped. A financial panic swept the nation. The State Board of Education, at Hovey's suggestion, formed a committee to negotiate the sale of the McLean County swamp lands in which lay seventy thousand dollars of the Normal School building fund.

HOVEY'S OWN purchase of twenty-five thousand dollars' worth of the land stimulated such interest in its sale that by June, 1859, sufficient funds were raised to continue work. A year later a graduating class of ten members held its commencement exercises in the study hall of the new building. The room was decorated with pine boughs and lighted by candles.

THE GRADUATING CLASS OF 1860

1857

FROM 1857 to 1860 school life at the Normal University was most informal. Even class attendance in the poorly-lighted tumbledown rooms directly beneath Major's Hall was not compulsory. Hovey was busy supervising work on the new building, and Ira

Moore did much of the teaching.

Perhaps the most formal gathering of each week was the meeting of the Normal Debating Society over which Charles D. Irons of Peoria first presided. Attendance at meetings was compulsory and tardiness was fined. Under these conditions it is easy to see why the men who started this society took their debating more seriously than their class work.

The society was as old as the school itself. Only five days after school opened in October 1857 the fourteen men enrolled in the Normal University had drawn up and signed the constitution of the Normal Debating Society. C. D. Irons was elected first president.

FOUR MEETINGS constituted a president's term, and in November Edwin Philbrook succeeded Irons. There was no provision for excluding visitors from the debate meetings and by November the town loafers made it a point to be on hand to heckle the speakers. This undoubtedly was excellent training for prospective teachers in pioneer schools and the debaters didn't mind it, for debating went on just as usual.

THINGS WENT smoothly under presidents Peter Harper and Henry H. Pope.

Then Enoch A. Gastman took office and trouble began. C. D. Irons had been irked all winter by this thing and that, and at the last meeting in February 1858 because of his actions, a fine of twenty-five cents was levied against him.

Wrathy, he refused to pay, and with companions Spaulding and Dutton attempted to resign from the society. John Hull urged expulsion of ring-leader Irons, but nothing came of it. The three were given honorable discharges and the first president, vice-president and secretary of the Normal Debating Society were free to join a new cause.

THE spring term students had refused to be impressed by the performance of the Normal Debating Society, and under the guidance of the three discharged members formed a new group called the "D and E Society."

In the fall of 1858 the Normal Debating Society under President John Hull chose the name "Philadelphian" as descriptive of the close harmony in which they worked without C. D. Irons, J. L. Spaulding and H. J. Dutton. The rival group soon hit upon the name "Wrightonia" thus honoring Simeon Wright who had befriended, among many others, the D and E Society. Less than a year after their founding both societies had their present names.

IN THE FALL OF 1860 school opened in the new building, but the classrooms were scarcely completed. Until midwinter classes migrated from one unfinished room to another as the carpenters carried on their work.

Then in April war was declared. Principal Hovey succeeded in persuading a number of hot-blooded young men that it was wiser to remain in school until the term-end than to answer Lincoln's call for volunteers.

But drill master John W. White was hired and the "Normal Rifles," composed of faculty and student men, drilled under him. At once the young women in school made a silk flag and upon presenting it to the "Rifles" Miss Sophie Crist declared:

"... By offering yourselves as defenders of our country, you have become nobler than we!" Thus, so it seems, war oratory has sounded in all ages.

July second the term ended and the "Rifles" disbanded.

Brevet Major-General, U. S. Volunteers

THE FEDERAL DEFEAT at Bull Run, July 21, 1861, panicked the North, and as a colonel in the Federal Army, Principal Hovey set about raising a regiment. Around a nucleus of the "Normal Rifles," which became Company A in his regiment, Colonel Hovey gathered men from among the students, teachers and educators of the state. Simeon Wright was quartermaster, and Dr. George P. Rex, another member of the State Board of Education was regimental surgeon.

Thus was organized Colonel Hovey's Thirty-third regiment, Illinois Infantry volunteers, the "schoolmaster's regiment."

Joseph G. Howell, a member of the first graduating class, taught in the Model School after his graduation in 1860. Unlike the "Normal Rifles" he volunteered in response to Lincoln's first call, joining the Eighth Illinois Infantry. He was killed in action February 15, 1862, during the siege of Fort Donelson.

JOSEPH G. HOWELL

BEFORE AUTUMN, 1861, Principal Hovey resigned, and on the twenty-first of October the "schoolmaster's regiment" saw action at Fredericktown, Missouri.

Back at Normal University Perkins Bass, of the State Board, took over the duties abandoned by Hovey.

FROM warring Missouri in the spring of 1862 Principal Edwards of the St. Louis Normal School came to Normal to teach. That summer he became principal, succeeding Bass. By this time Normal was almost completely disorganized, and its debt was so large that persons spoke confidently, some hopefully, of the school's immediate collapse. Principal Edwards solved these problems.

He brought Albert Stetson to the faculty and the methods of Bridgewater's Tillinghast who loathed frivolity and laziness, and unmercifully ridiculed sham in students, were inaugurated at Normal. These methods gave the school the reputation of being a "student-killer."

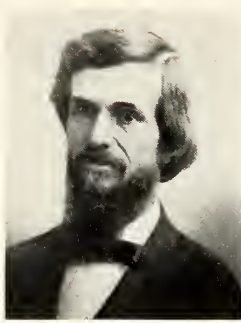

THE NORMAL SCHOOL BUILDING AND CAMPUS IN 1865

BEFORE THE LEGISLATURE in 1867 appropriated money with which to improve the campus the greater part of this sixty-acre tract resembled just what it had been before the state building was erected: Joseph Payne's and Meshack Pike's cornfield.

To the south of the building a hundred yards or so a little slough traced its way past a big willow tree, and what lay beyond that depended on the weather. During dry months it was dusty loam, during rainy weather, gumbo.

EDWIN C. HEWETT graduated from the State Normal School at Bridgewater, Massachusetts in 1852. Six years later he came to Illinois State Normal University as Professor of History and Geography. A firm believer in thoroughness he practiced the exacting method of recitation which he had learned in Bridgewater. In spite of his autocratic pose in the classroom, he inherited from some melancholy puritan ancestor a love of solitude which drove him to the little study in his home, there to read, rest or perhaps to write a sentimental quatrain.

the Bridgewater classroom method, which was one of accurate reproduction of the textbooks in the course.

At the time the accompanying picture was made he was thirty-nine, and the photograph clearly shows the scholarly face which impressed those who knew him. He was exquisitely neat in dress and most precise in speech, through forty-seven years of teaching in the middle west carefully preserving the distinctive accent he brought with him from Massachusetts.

John W. Cook was born in New York, April 20, 1844. Seven years later his parents moved to Illinois, settling in McLean County. John Cook entered Normal University in 1862, and graduated in 1865.

Upon his graduation he taught a year at Brimfield, Illinois, at the end of that time returning to Normal to become principal of the model school department. In 1868 he became a regular member of the Normal University Faculty, teaching History and Geography.

His college training had been for the most part under men the mould of Hewett and Metcalf, and in part at least his teaching reflected their peculiar methods.

Versatile, he was able to master a number of subjects well enough to teach them, and in 1869 he changed to the teaching of Reading and Elocution. Seven years later he again changed, this time being appointed Professor of Mathematics. He remained in this position fourteen years.

HE HAD A reporter's capacity for hard work as is evidenced by the amount of journalistic work he produced. In 1882 he edited the quarter-centennial history of the school with the help of James V. McHugh. During the four years between 1884 and 1888, in addition to his regular work as a member of the Normal School Faculty he edited and published the Illinois School Journal for teachers.

IN THE DAYS IMMEDIATELY following the organization of the D and E Society at Normal University, Principal Hovey several times sounded the warning that the time might come when it would be dissolved. Inter-society discord was rife, and perhaps this prompted the principal's warning.

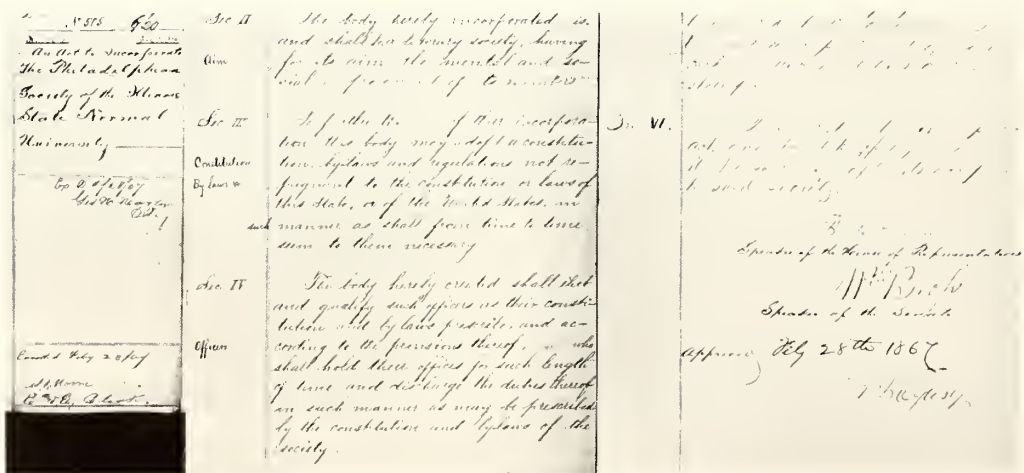

During this period of uncertainty, Simeon Wright was the outstanding champion of the organization at both private conferences with the principal and in board meetings. In spite of Hovey's attitude he saw to it that the "boys were allowed to go on with their experiment."

Nine years later, when both Philadelphia and Wrightonia incorporated, it was Simeon

Wright who helped them get their charters from the legislature of 1867.

FACSIMILE OF THE PHILADELPHIAN STATE CHARTER OF INCORPORATION

IN 1858 JOSEPH A. SEWELL, a druggist in Tonica, Illinois, dropped in at Major's Hall to see his old friend, Hovey. Hovey was looking for a man to teach the natural sciences, and was quite ready to hire friend Sewell, but Sewell was not willing to be hired. Promised that the position would be held open for him, he sold his Tonica drugstore and went to Yale, to Harvard, to Lawrence Scientific School, studying chemistry under Horsford, botany under Gray, attending a lecture series by Agassiz. In 1860 he was back at Normal in the promised position. Eighteen years later he resigned to become president of the University of Colorado.

POWELL AND HIS SUCCESSORS

THE STATE NATURAL HISTORY Society, founded in 1858 by the same men who had agitated for the Normal School, had rooms on the third floor of the new Normal Building. In 1867 it received its state charter. Major John W. Powell was first curator, and in 1869 headed the first successful expedition by boat through the treacherous rapids in the Grand Canyon of the Colorado River.

OLD MAIN AND THE CAMPUS IN 1871

THE PROGRAM FOR NORMAL'S TENTH COMMENCEMENT

From the complex vantage-ground of today, it is hard to realize that there were only two big events in the school year during Normal's first quarter century, the Phil-Wright contest, and Commencement.

ALICE EMMONS

In the winter of 1870 Alice Emmons was elected president of Philadelphian Society, the first woman ever to be chosen for this position. The contest was close, and because of dissatisfaction with the result a committee was appointed to test the election, declaring it illegal. R. A. Edwards was made president and pioneer "manhood" stood once more unimpeached.

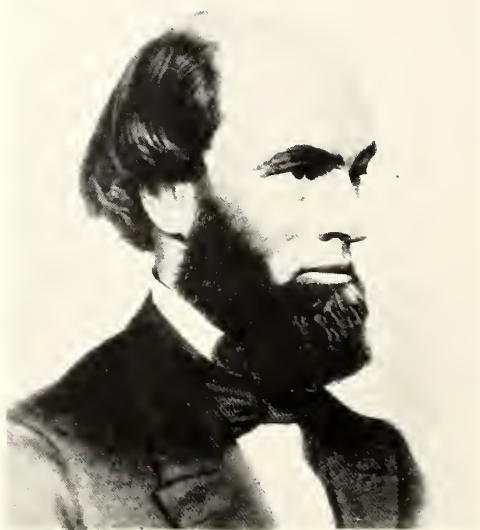

LIDA BROWN
Preceptress

IN early November 1872, Miss Lida Brown, preceptress of the school, invited six young women to share in an informal devotional hour to be held in her room of a Sunday afternoon.

"... They found the hour profitable," reads an historic account, "and believed that others should share in the blessings that they had enjoyed. . . . The interest increased, and their number grew. . . ."

In 1873 they organized as the Young Ladies Christian Association. From this has grown the national and international student Y.W.C.A. movement.

PRESIDENT RICHARD A. EDWARDS

A public speaker of no mean reputation, President Edwards received a number of calls to various Illinois churches. In 1875 he resigned as president of the school and accepted the pastorate in Owen Lovejoy's old church at Princeton, Illinois.

WRIGHTONIA HALL IN 1870

FROM 1860 TO 1864 the Normal University had but one piano, used in classes during the day, and used alternately at the evening meetings of the two societies, Philadelphia and Wrightonia. To get the piano into the society hall it was necessary to carry it up a flight of stairs before the meeting, and the authorities allowed this only on condition that it was again moved to the floor below at the end of the program.

The number of music lovers in each society was not so strong but that the societies frequently sang to the accompaniment of such simple instruments as the harmonica, or the jewsharp, or the comb.

Similarly it was the custom in the early years for the societies to borrow from the classrooms below chairs in which to seat the visitors who sometimes crowded the halls to capacity. These chairs had always to be returned promptly.

HENCE, WHEN Philadelphian and Wrightonian treasures grew fat, weary backs and sensitive ears voted for a piano, weary legs voted for chairs. In 1867 one of the societies purchased five hundred dollars worth of arm chairs, but no rockers.

By the middle of the seventies both halls had been decked out in style.

IN 1882 J. B. TURNER'S dream, the Illinois Industrial University, now the University of Illinois, was fifteen years old; Southern Illinois Normal University was thirteen years old; and Illinois State Normal University, "Old Normal," was twenty-five! Somewhere along the way Illinois' oldest state school must have lost favour. The records fail to show exactly when, but probably the loss came before 1867 when the Industrial University was established, surely it came before 1869 when Southern Normal was founded. For with the establishment of these schools, Normal lost its unique distinction of being the only state school of higher learning; and hope that some day Normal would be the University of Illinois, a hope cherished by many McLean County subscribers in 1857, vanished.

But the celebrating alumni looked forward confidently to the year 1957, called theirs the "quarter-centennial" celebration, and senior J. V. McHugh, with the aid of faculty member-alumnus J. W. Cook, edited a brief history of the school illustrated with sixteen photographs of the pioneer educators connected with "Old Normal."

One of the many celebrate alumni was Henry McCormick, of the class of 1868, a member of the faculty since 1869.

For fourteen years President Hewett quietly presided over a steadily growing Normal School, no longer intended to be a university, as quietly ceased presiding in 1890.

And on the campus a number of changes for the better had been made. By 1882 the janitor had been removed from his old living quarters in the basement, the janitor's cow barn, located in the northeast corner of the campus, had been torn down and its planks made into a sidewalk through the campus gumbo. The janitor's cow, which had pastured where she pleased in the former cornfield of Joseph Payne and Meshack Pike, ruminated no longer in the shade of this state house of learning.

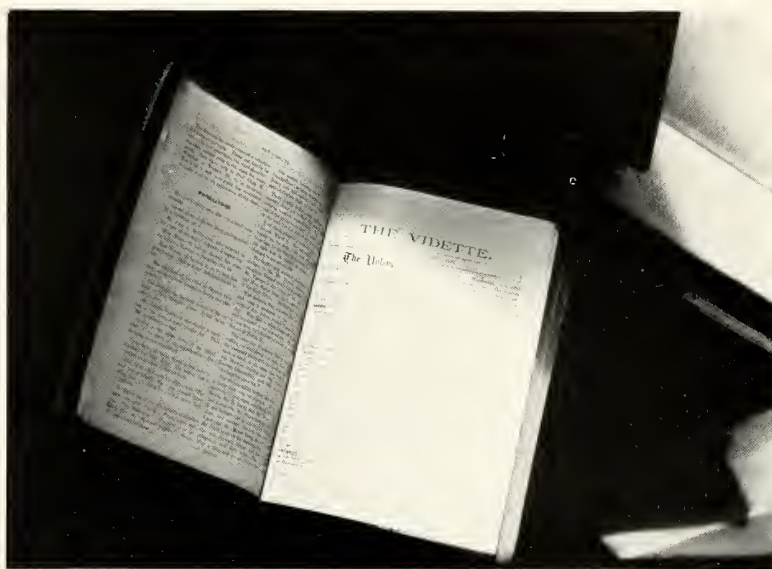

THE placing of a big bronze bell in the clock tower, a bell that sounded over the whole countryside when rung on the hour by a student or perhaps the basement dwelling janitor, was an idea even happier than removal of the ruminant cow

In 1888, the Vidette, Normal's first all-school publication, and a monthly periodical at that time, had the format of a pamphlet, its page size being not more than nine by twelve inches. Here is shown Volume I, Number II of the Vidette.

IN 1887 THERE WAS no all-school publication. Wrightonia and Philadelphia had society papers, in existence since 1858, and one issue of a rowdy sheet called the "Ventilator" had been published resulting in the expulsion of its editors, but the school felt the growing need of a publication for the whole student body.

Two students, Charles C. Wilson and James J. Sheppard, began agitation for such an organ, and so successful was their campaign that in March 1888 the first Vidette was published with M. Kate Bigham as editor. The news consisted in the main of faculty and student items with considerable space devoted to society meetings.

THE FACULTY CLUB IN 1889

PRESIDENT JOHN W. COOK

John W. Cook succeeded Hewett

THE NEW PRESIDENT, as everyone before him had done, immediately began a great many improvements. He petitioned the state for money for new buildings, urging the construction of a practice school and a gymnasium.

He changed the course of study so that a student could receive his diploma at the end of his second year, but also kept the old three-year curriculum. The elementary courses, Art, Music, Literature and Science, which had been in the school curriculum from 1860, were supplemented with more advanced work. Electric lights were installed in the rooms on the first floor and in the corridors of the second and third.

Henry McCormick said that Cook's whole administration could be characterized by the removal of the spittoons which since the opening of the school had been in the main corridor (presumably to accommodate tobacco-chewing pioneer visitors).

ONE OF THE CUSPIDORS

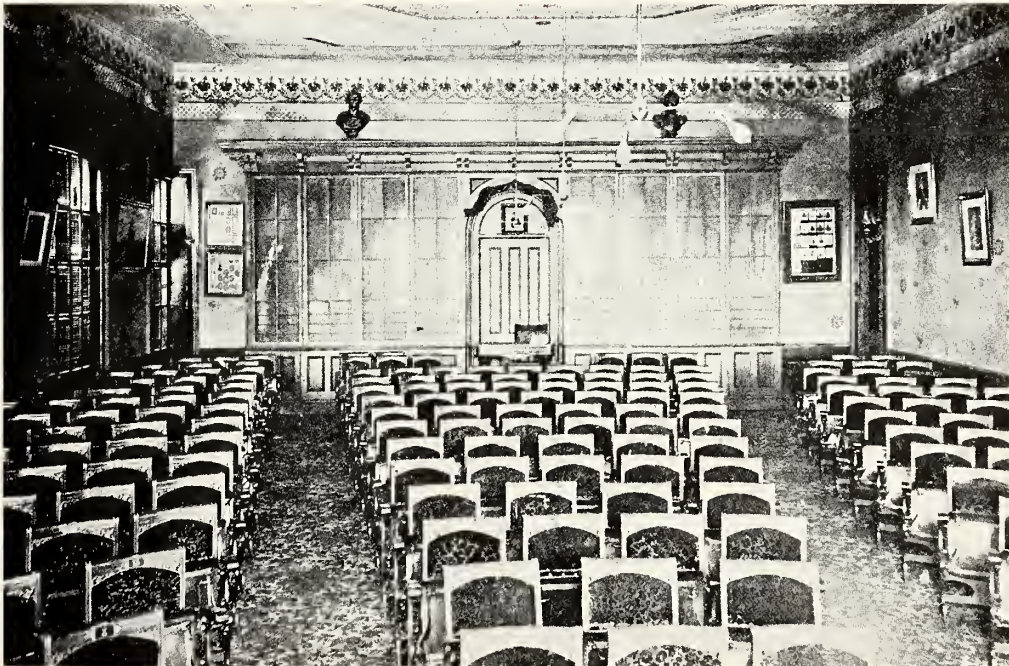

ILLUSTRATIVE MATERIAL BEING USED IN ONE OF THE ART CLASSES

THE SENIORS OF 1892, four years after the first Vidette was published, produced Normal University's first annual. The book was not so much a record of the entire school's activities, as of those of the senior class, and for twenty-six years only seniors were eligible for the position of editor. Although the first annuals were filled with sketches of events, accounts of humorous happenings, and pictures of the faculty and seniors, later classes saw the annual as a record of the school year and attempted to include in its pages material concerning all classes and organizations of the Illinois State Normal University. Since then it has become an all-school publication, financed as is the Vidette by a student tax, and serves as a kind of yearly school history.

THE INDEX, VOLUME I

Although the format of each early annual varied with the whim of its editor, or printer, the formats were more often than not those of books, not pamphlets.

PHILADELPHIAN HALL, 1898

Brussels rugs, "opera" chairs, and dark wood panelling were characteristic of the decoration in the society balls at the turn of the century.

BY 1890 the six libraries with which the school had started were two, a Public Document collection and another containing practically all other books owned by the school. Miss Ange V. Milner had just catalogued the collection and was looking for a conveniently located room in which to establish these shelves.

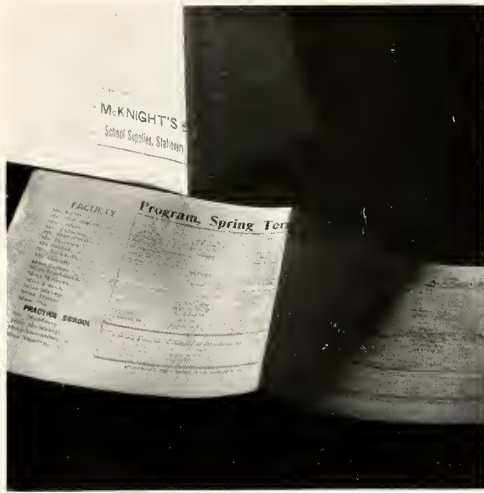

THE RECEPTION ROOM IN 1889

IN THE OLD reception room President Cook made way for the library. No longer was the fantastic bowler-hung hat tree planted by the door; and waiters no longer idled in its somewhat irregular shadow. Here in September 1890 a school library actually was established.

THE TWO SOCIETY libraries, each of them started in 1858, were donated to the school and were placed in the new library. Longer hours and freedom of the shelves were allowed library users. Student assistants were employed and began the eternal campaign against whispering.

In 1892 the library, outgrowing the reception room, was moved again to the upstairs corridor. There the stacks presented this view.

CLASS PROGRAMS IN 1894-1895

ESPECIALLY WHEN compared with present-day class program sheets do these of 1895 seem small. Approximately four by nine inches in size they included all the classes taught in Normal and Practice Schools, listing the faculty of twenty-one members easily in the width of the program.

In those days, perhaps for reasons of economy, the program carried large advertisements of the commercial bookstores in Normal.

IN 1892 the legislature appropriated money for the erection of a training school building. In this building the former Model School has expanded to the proportions of an ordinary graded school. President Cook at this time urged members of the faculty to observe the work of their departments in the school, supervise it and in some cases teach the classes. "To the extent that this advice was followed, both Model School and Normal Department profited," concluded an old account.

ENTRANCE TO TRAINING SCHOOL

But in all events the period from 1890 to 1900 marks the transition from Model School to Training School.

TRAINING SCHOOL
FROM NORTH

During the period before an entrance to the Training School Building was cut in the south wall, a great mass of ivy was trained about the windows on the sunny side of the building.

Some traces of this growth still linger today, but the luxuriant ivy, as it appears in this picture, has vanished.

THE CROWDED condition of classes at Normal in 1894 was pointed out to Governor Altgeld, with the added fact that much of the overcrowding resulted from attendance of high school students in the Normal Department classes. He suggested that the High School Department be abolished. A year later this was done.

Student resentment ran high; extreme demonstrations took place on the campus. A coffin supposed to contain the High School Department was buried, and afterward shrouded figures hanged well-meaning Governor Altgeld in effigy. The 1895 Index expressed its disapproval in the telling cartoon at the right. The funeral procession in silhouette is shown at the top of the page, the hanging at the bottom.

IN 1895 SPEECH contests aroused a degree of partisan spirit comparable to that of a modern intercollegiate football or basketball game. This explains the crowd shown below taking part in the ceremonies attendant on the departure of a debate team for an interstate, intercollegiate match. Not even the departure of Old Normal's 1931 basketball champions caused such a turnout.

A DEBATE TEAM SEND-OFF IN THE NINETIES

MISS Alice Jean Patterson, a graduate of Normal, became a member of the faculty in 1906. Already she had written and published a book on insect life called "The Spinner Family." She continued her writings after joining the Normal faculty. Her most elaborate project was nearly complete at the time of her death in 1929. It was a series of books on Nature Study and Health Education to be used in the elementary school and junior high school. The volume for junior high school pupils was the only one not completed.

ALICE JEAN PATTERSON

IN 1897, five years after his graduation from Normal University, Francis G. Blair became principal of Franklin School, Buffalo, New York. Two years later he became superintendent of the training department of Eastern Illinois State Teachers College at Charleston, Illinois, and held this position until 1906 during which year he was made Superintendent of Public Instruction for the State of Illinois. For the past twenty-six years he has held that position.

FRANCIS G. BLAIR

THIS PICTURE OFFERS an excellent opportunity for comparison with later views of the campus which are available. The interested reader is referred to the Hawkins airplane photograph printed in color on page forty-seven, and the picture of the ghastly wreckage following the sleet storm of 1924 which is printed on page thirty-nine. By this comparison the rustic air of the campus at the close of the nineteenth century is emphasized.

THIS IMPRESSION IS not incorrect, for there are faculty members who recall the practice of allowing the grass on the south campus, sometimes even as far as the drive, to be grown for hay. The truly remarkable fact, however, is that many of these trees, even some of the oldest and largest, were planted according to William Saunders' casual landscaping design. The pond made under Jesse Fell's direction is at the extreme right.

WHEN PLANS WERE drawn for a library and gymnasium Governor Altgeld chose a design following the lines of the Penitentiary and an Insane Asylum, and Old Normal disapproved in the above cartoon. Altgeld is shown dressed in medieval costume and surrounded by the state structures patterned after Old World castles.

THE GYMNASIUM IN 1900

THE ELABORATE GYMNASIUM APPARATUS

FOR MORE THAN a quarter of a century the school had needed a gymnasium. The janitor's former quarters in the basement of the Main Building were a stuffy place for "Physical Activity" rooms. President Edwards in 1866 had been the first to suggest the need for a gymnasium, but the legislature had been too busy establishing the Industrial University and Southern Illinois Normal to heed this modest request from the oldest state school.

NOR WAS PRESIDENT Hewett's request taken any more seriously. In fact thirty-three years elapsed between Old Normal's first request for a gymnasium and its completion.

THE FOOTBALL TEAM OF 1895

IN THE EARLY YEARS, before the gymnasium was built, husky farm lads, equally husky town boys, banded together to play rough, nondescript games which they called football and baseball.

THE BOOK STACKS AND READING ROOM OF THE LIBRARY IN THE OLD GYMNASIUM BUILDING

FROM THE FIRST year the Normal School had owned a textbook library of more than two thousand six hundred volumes, its libraries of reference material, five of them totaled a mere four hundred ninety-seven volumes, of which one hundred three were Public Documents of questionable value as reference material for students in a Normal School.

IN 1891 THIS TOTAL had multiplied eight times, being moved to an upper floor corridor six years before the gymnasium was completed, because it no longer could be housed in the reception room. In 1898 it was moved to the long second floor room of the gymnasium building.

Although the rules were carefully thought out and strict, the equipment gave somewhat the appearance of being thrown together in the library which opened on the second floor of the Gymnasium building.

IN JUNE, 1899, John W. Cook left Illinois State Normal University to become president of the new teachers' college, established at DeKalb, Illinois. From the chair of pedagogy at the University of Illinois, the Board of Education called Arnold Tompkins to succeed Cook as President of Illinois' oldest normal school.

He brought to Normal the fresh vision and perspective of one who approaches a task unhampered by the bias of tradition. More freedom was immediately introduced into school life; recitation periods were lengthened, and the course was made more flexible, adapted to the varying needs of students with different degrees of preparation. In many ways his broadening influence made its way into the course of study.

BRILLIANT LECTURER and teacher, he spent most of the year at Normal leading faculty discussions, analyzing all proposals for changing the thirty-three-year-old curriculum which Charles E. Hovey had prepared in that long ago summer of 1857.

"No year in the history of the institution," reads one account, "witnessed more radical changes."

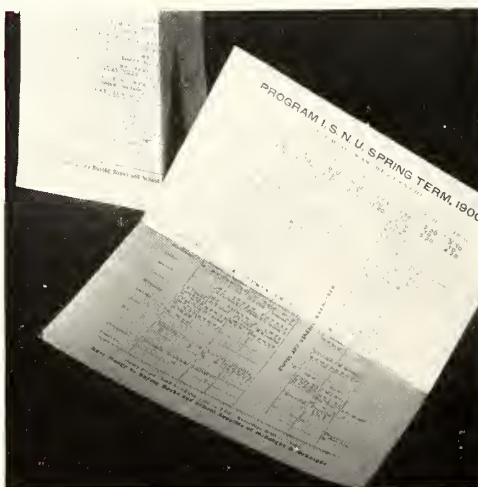

PRESIDENT ARNOLD TOMPKINS

1899 to 1900

Leaving behind outlines of the changes to make, President Tompkins resigned at the end of his first year and went to the Chicago Normal School, where he remained as president until his death in 1905. David Felmley became president.

OLD MAIN IN LATE AFTERNOON

PRESIDENT DAVID FELMLEY
As he appeared in 1914

THE NEW PRESIDENT carried on the reforms suggested and outlined by Tompkins, inaugurated as well some others which appealed to him. As every president before him had tried to do, John W. Cook being the most successful, David Felmley began a campaign of physical improvement on the campus.

The old board sidewalks, some of them in poor repair, most of them having been laid twenty years earlier, were replaced by cement sidewalks. A paved drive was put through the campus.

THERE WAS REPEATED talk of new buildings; the legislature seemed most favorable toward a program of expansion. There would be a new building to house the physics and chemistry laboratories, the manual training shops, the home economics kitchens; another training school building was to be added, and it would include a new high school, better than the one now almost fifteen years "buried," where student teachers could practice.

In all landscaping on the campus William Saunders' plans, laid out half a century earlier, were carefully regarded. The trees which Jesse Fell had planted between 1868 and 1870 had thrived in the rich soil, and the land south of the driveway was now a shaded park when the grass was cut.

" . . . The trees which Jesse Fell had planted . . . had thrived in the rich soil . . . "

OLD MAIN AND THE TRAINING SCHOOL IN 1902

THE DAY OF JUNE 10, 1902, was hot and sultry. Heavy clouds impended over central Illinois, and early in the evening they dropped close to the prairie, enshrouding it in silence, portending storm. As night drew out the wind rose, scattering big drops of rain in its first squalls, promising more. By midnight the storm had broken over Normal, the wind had become a gale, the rain a torrent. Lightning was one weird continuous flare, a ghastly luminant for a ghastly business.

Rain, forced by the wind, sought every ill-fitting window sill, seeped through every cranny. Frame houses literally leaked water! And outside the fiendish wind tore immense trees in half, tangled their broken parts.

BY MORNING only a little drizzle remained, and the wreckage. The town was hard hit, so was the campus. Old Main's roof was torn off, eleven of the sixteen chimneys at the roof edge were destroyed. All the windows in the tower were blown to bits, even the sashes destroyed.

WATER stood four inches deep on the study hall floor which had served as the building's roof during 1857 and 1858, and was water-tight.

Although it took six weeks to remove the debris from the campus, the water in the study hall was shoveled out and classes met the morning after the storm.

THE PRESIDENT'S OFFICE IN 1902

BEGINNING ABOUT 1872, every spring the students would tether the janitor's cow in some remote corner of the campus, would trample base-lines through the long grass, establish a home-plate, and play baseball.

By 1884 football was discovered, and informal, bone-crushing games occupied the attention of the men in both High School and Normal Departments during the fall. The men of the two departments teamed together in those days; and the coach, if any, generally played too.

Wesleyan, Bloomington High School and Normal High School were local rivals.

BASKETBALL CHAMPIONS, 1901

THE FAMOUS FOOTBALL CHAMPIONS OF 1907

A WOMEN'S BASKETBALL CHAMPIONSHIP TEAM

TENNIS WAS INTRODUCED to the campus in 1890, and shortly thereafter the school had sixty lawn tennis courts, according to one report. This active interest in tennis did not keep the football team from turning in a real record a year or so later, just before the High School Department was closed. And it is possible that much of the resentment over the abolishment of the High School arose from that fact, that many good athletes not in the Normal Department, no longer could find excuses for playing with Normal's teams.

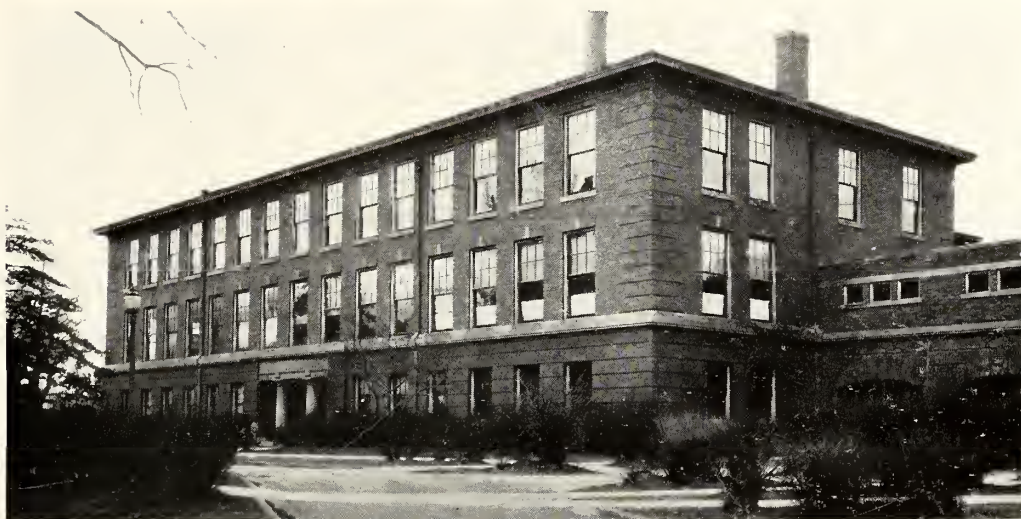

In 1896 basketball was introduced, and a year later an Athletic Association was in charge of all Normal sports.

IN 1903 William Bawdin of Columbia had been brought to Normal to teach classes in mechanical drawing and manual training. These classes met with instant success and the demands were so great that more room was needed to accommodate the students.

The art department needed special rooms too, and the science department had at last outgrown its rooms on the third floor of the Gymnasium building. In 1907, after four years of crowded classrooms, the legislature appropriated the money for a new building.

THE MANUAL ARTS BUILDING COMPLETED IN 1908

The first building which President Felmley added to the campus of Illinois State Normal University was planned to house the manual training shops, art classrooms and science laboratories, in addition providing a spacious auditorium for General Assembly which had long since outgrown the study hall in the Main Building.

THE SCIENCE department, for a good many years had been left somewhat unattended. It had small quarters on the third floor of the Gymnasium building, although it had been off to a running start in 1861, one of the most thrilling beginnings in the history of science teachings in the Middle West.

At a time when many sectarian colleges, fearing the clash of science and the indoctrinated churches which had established them, refused to introduce science courses into their curricula, Old Normal offered one of the few programs of science study available in the entire Middle West.

Through the Natural History Society, located in the Normal Building, science students were in contact with explorers, botanists, zoologists busy collecting and tabulating flora and fauna of the great Far West. This valuable contact was let atrophy, and by 1884 even the Museum of Natural History, which the Normal University had in its possession, had been taken to the State University.—THE EDITOR.

GENERAL EXERCISES, a daily except Tuesday mid-morning affair, was a peculiar ritual retained from the past. It had begun as a substitute for "Chapel" in sectarian schools, Dr. Edwards being a minister as well as a teacher.

Assemblies four days a week were easily handled in 1901, when the school had little more than two hundred students, but twenty-seven years later, during regular terms, an overflow crowd had to be seated in the study hall, have a separate assembly. Summer school assemblies met on alternate days in sections of a thousand each. The practice had become unwieldy.

PRESIDENT FELMLEY AT HIS DESK

GENERAL EXERCISES WITH PRESIDENT FELMLEY PRESIDING

MISS ANGE V. MILNER AT HER DESK

SUBSTITUTED FOR the General Assembly period on Tuesdays were the peculiar institutions called Rhetoricals. They were a sort of amateur public speaking classes in which students were expected to become familiar with parliamentary ways, or with some topic chosen by the group or the instructor in charge.

All students, except those active in speech work, or the band, or the literary societies, were enrolled in one rhetorical section or another. This arrangement was preferred by those who least needed the training, irked the majority whose ambition to become teachers had not hinged on public speaking ability, however much it should have.

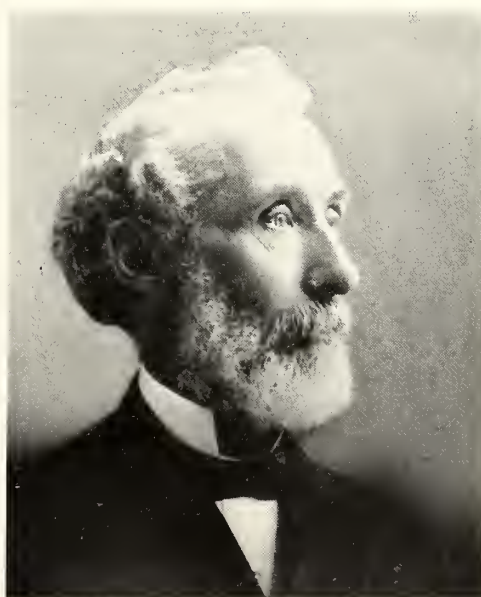

IN THE EXPANSION program that President Felmley started, one which more than quadrupled the school's enrollment within a period of two decades, the second building containing classrooms was ready for use in 1914. Into this building the training school was transferred from what is now known as the Library. Here expansion in every department was begun.

THE METCALF TRAINING SCHOOL BUILDING COMPLETED IN 1914

THE NEW BUILDING, a three-story affair, was large enough to take care of both the elementary school and the re-organized secondary practice school. It allowed larger classes to be organized and permitted more student teachers to practice, thus helping them get experience in actual school room work. On the first floor of the building was a new gymnasium for the elementary school, and directly south of the main entrance were acres of playground which both boys and girls put to instant use.

The building was named to honor Thomas Metcalf, who for thirty-two years had been a member of the faculty at Normal. In 1873 he had been made head of the re-organized Training School Department, and had served in that position for twenty-one years, resigning only six months before his death on January 1, 1895.

THOMAS METCALF IN 1885

IN 1902 A SCHOOL garden consisting of about two acres was begun, and two years later gardener Bruno Nehrling was brought from the Missouri Botanical Gardens to replant the storm-torn campus of Illinois State Normal University.

Plans were immediately made for a plant house in which to keep exotic plants unsuited to the Illinois climate, but valuable in scientific study. In 1905 this building was completed. The gardener also was able to keep flourishing many varieties of flowers, transplanting them to outdoor beds in the spring and summer, thus keeping the campus in seemingly endless bloom.

THE UNIVERSITY FARM ORGANIZED IN 1914-1915

CHARLES L. CAPEN

Irwin A. Madden, a graduate of Northern Illinois State Teachers College and the University of Illinois, planned the farm which President Felmley included in his development of the school.

Of the ninety-five acres which made up the farm, some ninety were put into cultivation. Student farmers were allowed to work on the farm, helping in the large self-supporting Dairy business which the school organization had built up.

Today the work has been changed to resemble more closely that of the experiment station for Agriculture at the University of Illinois.

DURING THE YEAR that J. W. Cook was a senior at Normal University, Charles L. Capen finished the High School course. From 1865 to 1869 he studied law at Harvard. He became a member of the School Board in 1891, remained a member for thirty-four years. After his death in May, 1927, plans were made to name the auditorium in the Manual Arts Building in his honor. A bronze portrait plaque in bas-relief is set in the wall beneath the balcony to the east of the proscenium arch.

A SAPPHONIAN SOCIETY CEREMONIAL

Interest in this sister-society of the Ciceroians, founded in 1887, began to wane at the turn of the century, and by 1913 this twenty-five year old women's speech society was dead.

WHEN WAR WAS declared in April, 1917, many of the young men immediately left school to enlist, Franklin Lutz of Bloomington being the first to do so. By June thirty-two had entered the ranks. The women were organized into Red Cross units; special liberty loan drives were sponsored by the school. When the Armistice was signed the school service flag had six hundred twenty-six stars, fourteen of them gold. On Arbor Day, 1919, a group of ex-service men planted an elm tree on the campus, dedicating it to the memory of the "fallen heroes who died for democracy." This tree is near the McCormick Gymnasium.

A year later, on Memorial Day, the stone shown in this picture was dedicated to Normal University's war dead. Each year on Armistice Day the University gathers here to pay tribute to the men of the school who were sacrificed in a terrible, futile attempt to bring peace to a greedy world.

FELL HALL COMPLETED IN 1918

IN JUNE, 1865, President Edwards had recommended the erection of a dormitory to accommodate one hundred fifty students at Normal University. Nothing came of this suggestion, but fifty years later during President Felmley's administration a building was begun, intended to be a residence hall for some of the women in school.

The building was started in 1916 but war and accompanying distractions prolonged the construction work until 1918. In July it was formally opened, named Fell Hall.

The old lily pond, which had become a sort of aquatic garden, with perhaps as many varieties of fauna as flora, was drained when Fell Hall was located. Gradually the school buildings were taking over the once park-like southwest campus.

JESSE FELL

THE CAMPUS FROM THE AIR IN 1929

INTERESTING STUDY in contrast are the airplane photograph and the old pictures of the campus taken in the sixties and seventies of the nineteenth century. The designs of William Saunders must have been excellent; the manner in which they were carried out, scrupulous to achieve in a soggy, treeless cornfield the effect shown above,

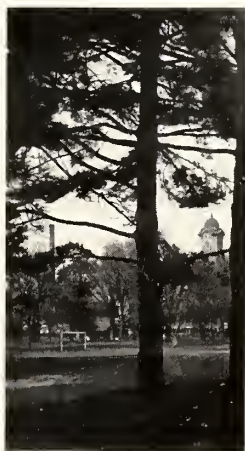

The legend has it that it was Jesse Fell's idea to have a landscape gardener from the east plan the campus, and these plans were secured in 1858, two years before the third floor of the building was completed. Not until nine years later did the legislature provide money with which to secure trees and shrubs, but in that year it officially declared the Normal University a state institution and gave it three thousand dollars with which to improve the campus.

Shortly before the appropriation, the men at Normal University had laid a green-wood walk from the edge of Bloomington through Normal's mud to the school building.

FELL AT ONCE began planting trees, following Saunders' designs as carefully as he could. Many large trees were transplanted from Fell's private grounds, among them the row of tulip trees still standing along the south edge of the drive. More than once, the story goes, Mr. Fell would come to the campus after a wind storm and find his transplanted tulip trees tipped at precarious angles, some of them uprooted; and more than once, it is said, they were carefully replaced, and left supported by props until their roots should be strong enough to hold them upright.

Although not a few have been damaged in one storm or another, today there still remain a number of the trees first planted by Jesse Fell.

The sidewalks of concrete, which are the narrow white ribbons in this picture, are another comfortable step away from the early days when a narrow plank walk was the only pedestrian thoroughfare from Bloomington to Normal and there were no public conveyances.

THE TOWER

THE CAMPUS DURING THE SLEET STORM OF 1924

A most destructive storm decked Normal's campus with ice during December, 1924. Bespangled trees and shrubs, a dazzling, slippery coating of ice on walks and streets made it difficult to see, even more difficult to walk. From a distance the effect was beautiful if one could stand up long enough to see it.

GRADUATE OF Dartmouth in 1886, Orson Leroy Manchester taught in two schools in the east, one of them in New York, one of them in Massachusetts, then came to Joliet, Illinois, as principal of the high school. In 1891 after serving his third year as principal of the Joliet high school, he came to Normal University, took charge of the High School Department until it was abolished in 1895. Immediately he was appointed professor of Foreign Language and Economics. In 1911 he was made Dean of the School, the first to hold this position.

Besides his school work he was active in town politics, was mayor of Normal from 1907 to 1917. Among many constructive policies, outstanding was his paving of Normal streets, "pulling it out of the mud" in which it had been mired since pioneer days.

During his last years at Normal University he was professor of Economics and Sociology. He died during commencement week, 1928.

On closer view, however, the damage wrought by the heavy sleet coating was serious. This spangle-bung campus was no dainty crystal palace. Phone lines were dead, power lines broken; transportation was badly crippled. For a short count nature had man down again.

IN JUNE, 1889, President Hewett told the Board of Education that it was "the general feeling of the faculty that the library might be much more useful if we could employ a permanent librarian." The board formed a library committee, took the subject under consideration. Early in 1890 Miss Milner was brought to Normal University to catalog and classify the various volumes from the several sources previously mentioned. Under her direction the library outgrew more than one location. Finally during President Felmley's administration it was moved into its present home, the old training school.

THE LIBRARY IN 1928

MISS ANGE V. MILNER
Librarian from 1890 to 1928

WITHIN A MONTH after the Illinois Normal School Bill was passed, less than two weeks before Jesse Fell and McLean County co-workers secured the school's permanent location in North Bloomington, David Felmley was born, April 24, 1857. He studied three years at the Academy of Blackburn University, leaving there in 1875. Six years later, after having taught, he secured his A.B. from the University of Michigan. In 1890 he came to Illinois State Normal University to teach mathematics, and held this position for ten years. He succeeded Arnold Tompkins to the presidency in 1900.

FOR THIRTY YEARS he conducted a program of physical improvement and expansion at the Normal School, and significantly his last cherished project, a Science Building, was being completed during the last year of his life.

DEAN HERMAN HENRY SCHROEDER

DURING THE FALL of 1928 President Felmley became seriously ill, and was forced to leave his work. Dean Herman H. Schroeder, who succeeded Dean Manchester, took over the President's executive work in addition to his own. Although President Felmley returned to the school for a time during 1929 he was noticeably weakened by his illness. Forced at last to remain at home, he nevertheless attended to the work which demanded his personal attention, dictating letters in his home, sometimes from the sick-bed. On January 24, 1930, he died, after forty years at Old Normal, thirty years as its president.

During the remainder of the regular school year Acting-President Schroeder carried the double burden of administrator and dean. The school awaited the choosing of a new president.

In July, 1930, President H. A. Brown came to Normal, took up his task of acquainting himself with the school's problems, solving them.

PRESIDENT HARRY A. BROWN

FOR THIRTEEN YEARS prior to his appointment as president of Illinois State Normal University, H. A. Brown was president of the State Teachers College at Oshkosh, Wisconsin, and had changed that school from a two-year institution to full college level with four-year curricula in all divisions. As a member of the American Association of Teachers Colleges he had been largely instrumental in establishing a national standard for this type of institution.

In March, 1930, Normal University had lost its "A" rating in the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools. To comply with the standards of this association, and thus regain the rating, class periods were lengthened, daily General Assembly and Rhetoricals were dropped from the school program.

"My main purpose in existing as president is the upbuilding of the school. I shall strive to make this the outstanding Teachers College in the United States. It has the background and setting to be that!"

—PRESIDENT H. A. BROWN.

THE DAVID
OF SCIENCE

"President Brown dedicated the building to its peculiar work in education in the name of him who had laboured here so abundantly . . . President Davidson of the Illinois Wesleyan University offered the dedicatory prayer, petitioning that the building might serve its holy purpose of ridding men's minds of fear and superstition, thus making them free indeed in the truth."—ALUMNI QUARTERLY.

IN 1922 PRESIDENT Felmley petitioned the state for a new gymnasium. Two years later the money was appropriated and by Homecoming in 1925 the new building was open for public inspection.

In the new building the two Physical Education Departments, today called the Division of Health and Sports Education, had room to carry out an extensive program of supervised intramural athletics. At present Normal University's intramural program is without question most complete.

THE 1931 STATE Normal basketball team brought to Old Normal its first "Little Nineteen" cage title in the history of the institution. The Redbird team went through a conference schedule with but one defeat, and concluded a successful season by annexing the Teachers College Tournament.

The personnel of the champions consisted of James "Pim" Goff and Roland "Ike" Zook, forwards; Leslie "Mose" Moore, center; and Dorrence "Red" Darling and Harold "Sis" Swartzbaugh, guards. Darling and Moore were chosen on the first all-conference team and Goff led the conference scorers.

THE RESERVE strength of the Normal crew made up of Ralph "Charl" Kingery, Robert "Bob" Rowe, Richard "Dick" Peterson, and James "Jimmy" Tatman, forwards; Campbell "Stretch" Miller, center; and Ellis "Alex" Wade, Peter "Pete" Miner and Howard "Howie" Oetting, guards. The reserves were almost on a par with the first stringers, and this had no little part in making Normal's season successful. In both encounters with Illinois Wesleyan the Redbird team was victorious. Moore, Darling and Goff were named on the first all-conference team, Zook was picked for the second team by coaches and pressmen.

MISS June Rose Colby was born at Cherry Valley, Ohio, in 1856. Her early education was gained at home from her mother, a woman of unusual gifts. She entered the elementary school in the seventh grade at Freeport, Illinois, where she also attended high school. In 1870 Michigan announced that its doors were at last opened to women. Four years later Miss Colby was enrolled in that University.

In 1892 she came to Normal University. Here she became actively interested in Sapphonian Society, remained its sponsor for twenty years. In addition between the years 1900 and 1912 she published several volumes.

These publications in addition to her regular work as a teacher of literature at Illinois State Normal University, and her work as Dean of Women, which latter position she held for seventeen years, have occupied her time since coming to Normal.

In July, 1931, after more than thirty-nine years of service at Normal, she was made Emerita Professor of Literature.

Among Miss Colby's published works mentioned above are school editions of Eliot's "Silas Marner" and Scott's "Quentin Durward" and the volume "Literature and Life in the School."

During the school year of 1931-1932 Miss Colby taught senior college classes in Literature; she has said that when she leaves she will take with her a "chair of Literature" which she had built when she first came to Normal, and which she has used since then at her desk.

MISS COLBY IN 1892

MISS Clarissa E. Ela was born in Bloomington, Illinois. As a girl she knew former Principal Hovey who had been through the Civil War with her father. She was also a friend of Frederick Goudy, the famous type designer and typographer, who lived at that time in this vicinity.

Not graduating from Normal University until 1884 she was in school during the "Quarter-centennial" celebration to which returned many of the pioneer educators responsible for starting Illinois Normal. Later she studied at Massachusetts State Normal Art School.

She also did work at Harvard University, Columbia University, and New York University. In 1888 she returned to Normal and was placed in charge of the Art courses. Twice, later, she went abroad to study, spending her entire time in Florence, Italy, during one trip.

Perhaps the unswerving directness with which Miss Ela taught, the method introduced at Normal from Bridgewater, was the quality which many students in her classes recognized.

During her first years of teaching at Illinois State Normal University she often had fifty or sixty, sometimes as many as eighty, students in her art classes. The experience which she gained from working with such large groups resulted in development of the style of teaching her classes knew.

She was given the title, Emeritus, in July, 1931, after thirty-eight years of teaching.

THE SITE OF FELL HALL WHEN THE SOUTHWEST CAMPUS WAS STILL A PARK

The pond and large old trees shown in this picture were the landmarks which had to be removed when it was decided to locate the new residence hall for women, Fell Hall, on this spot.

NOT WITHOUT FLAW, but worth thinking about, is the analogy between the changes that were necessary before the rustic park-like campus of the older picture could assume the character and atmosphere shown in the second photograph and the changes which the twentieth century brought to the less tangible elements which make up the college; its spirit, some would say.

Old landmarks had to be sacrificed; old customs changed, some of them radically, some only slightly. A few of these changes have been briefly noted in the preceding pages.

Today, so far as the physical plant of Normal University is concerned, pioneer days are over, even the decrepit benches in the Main Building are doomed. But there are problems today no less real than the one set for Hovey: to create a Normal University in a cornfield. To teach people how to live with themselves, and with one another, that problem is attracting today's pioneers.

THE SAME CORNER OF THE CAMPUS

DEAN FRANK SEELEY SALISBURY
Of the Training Schools

FROM A MERE SEVEN pupils enrolled in the Model School Department of the Illinois State Normal University temporarily located in Major's Hall in Bloomington, to "a room full, and fifty that had to be turned away" is the remarkable growth of that department in the first three months of its existence. Under Mary Brooks, who taught it from the start, this success continued.

The Model School Department was changed to a Training School in which students who would teach could practice, and Thomas Metcalf was placed in charge. This Training School expanded, outgrew the building which President Cook had built for it, was finally located by President Felmley in the Thomas Metcalf Building where it is today.

Here, under the administration of Dr. Frank S. Salisbury, who was brought to Normal University in 1931 as Dean of the Training Schools, the work which able Mary Brooks in a period of three months popularized among pioneer Bloomington residents is being carried on today.

THE CAMPUS FROM THE AIR IN 1932

FROM THIS POSITION at the south end of the campus looking north toward the Main Building, the pattern of that part of the grounds which has been planned with greater care is in evidence. Note the easy formality of the curve made by the trees to the east (the right). This cannot be noticed from the ground. The texture of the magnificent sweep of lawn directly south of Old Main also deserves mention. From so great a height the whole arrangement seems perfect, the brilliant sunlight making each building sharply-defined as though new.

IN ORDER, THE buildings are: 1. McCormick Gymnasium (nearest the bottom of the picture); 2. Fell Hall (next above it); 3. The Old Castle; 4. Manual Arts Building; 5. The Heating Plant (to the left behind the Manual Arts Building); 6. Old Main (to the right of the Manual Arts Building); 7. The Library (directly behind Old Main); 8. The David Felmley Hall of Science (to the right of the Library); 9. Thomas Metcalf Training School Building.

One evening soon after the Fall term had started, fifteen old members of the Hopkins Agriculture Club, which was formed on our campus in honor of Cyril Hopkins of Illinois, met in room E to initiate twenty new members into the activities of the club.

The club sponsored the Hobo Parade at Homecoming, the Holbert Medal Corn Judging Contest, the judging contest for Smith-Hughes Agriculture Schools in section seven of Illinois, the Annual Corn Show, the Livestock Judging contest for section seven, the Barn Dance in the University Dairy Barn, and the annual Spring banquet for club members.

The Art Club is composed of students in Curriculum F, and other students having two major credits in the Art Department. Fifteen students were initiated into the club this year.

Art Club activities during the school year consist of leather tooling and other crafts, figure sketching and a study of modern art.

On January 9, the annual all school dance sponsored by the Art Club was held in the Woman's Gymnasium. "Palm Beach" was the theme, and everyone wore his summer clothes to carry out the effect of "Summer in Winter".

The club owes much of its success to the efforts of Miss Allen, its sponsor, and to the interest of all the art faculty, the honorary members.

Theta chapter of Pi Omega Pi was established at I.S.N.U. on June 3, 1928.

Pi Omega Pi is a national honorary commercial fraternity. Its purpose is to promote intelligent and enthusiastic interest in the field of commerce and to foster in the teaching profession the aims of the fraternity: service, loyalty, and progress.

The fraternity's initiation and homecoming banquet were held on October 31.

This year the chapter is working on the projects of a commercial bibliography and a chapter paper. Active members of the local chapter are:

The first meeting of the winter term was held at the Old Castle, December 10, and the above officers were elected. After the election the game of Fifty was enjoyed. Following the game, prizes were awarded to the best dressed hobo man and woman, and also to those having the highest scores of the game. The rest of the evening was spent in dancing—the music being furnished by Mendel Reilly and his orchestra.

The second meeting of the term was held in the Wrightonian Hall and the program consisted of a mock trial put on by Mr. Williams' Commercial Law classes. The trial was amusing as well as instructive, and the evening was one of great enjoyment. The Commercial Club orchestra played several numbers before and after the trial.

The Club is now organizing a Hiking Club among the members and their friends. Many other programs and parties are also being planned. Everyone is working for a bigger and better Commercial Club, and so far this club has been one of the best.

Alpha Theta Chi is a local professional education sorority which was organized in May, 1930, as an outgrowth of the Education Club.

The purposes of the sorority are to stimulate an interest in education, to further professional ideals and advancement of its members, and to foster social fellowship among the members and students taking work in the Department of Education.

The Homecoming luncheon was held with Kappa Phi Kappa on Saturday, October 31, 1931, at noon, at the Y.W.C.A. Forty-five members, including both organizations, were present. It was a great success and set a high mark for later re-unions.

Faculty members of the sorority are Erma Imboden, Agnes Rice, Gladys Bartle, Mary Webb, Ruberta Smith, and H. A. Peterson. Charter members in school are Georgene Larson, Virginia Smith, Lucille Thompson, Dorothy Lee, Alice M. Pannwitt, Opal Chase, and Marie Claude. Initiates for the Fall term were: Grace Bushell, Yvonne Dohler, Clara Smith, Beatrice Griffin, Maxine Jenkins, Alice McBride, Mary Yenerich, and Doris Batterton.

Kappa Phi Kappa is a national professional fraternity, which consists of members of the faculty of the departments of education and psychology, and students having high scholarship in educational courses. Desirable traits of personality, including good character, are also required.

Professor Malmberg and Professor Peterson were largely instrumental in the founding of Alpha Tau chapter, which occurred May 2, 1931. Professor Malmberg already had membership in Kappa Phi Kappa through the Eta chapter in Pennsylvania.

During November, Kappa Phi Kappa combined to hear an interesting lecture on "Why a New Day in Education?" given by Dean Frank S. Salisbury.

In February, 1932, the following men constituted the active chapter:

The Hieronymus Collegiate Chapter of the American Life Association was founded April 11, 1922, with thirty-eight charter members. Its purpose is to discuss such problems of community life as the students of I.S.N.U. will meet when they are teaching. Since the chapter is affiliated with the national organization and is brought into contact with similar organizations in other educational institutions, an opportunity is offered to its members for becoming acquainted with community activities throughout the United States.

The outstanding features of the year's program were:

A Christmas party, given the third week of December, with Dr. Hieronymus, for whom the club was named, as the guest of honor.

The annual corn show, given in January, in co-operation with the Hopkins Agriculture Club.

Mr. Robert McVickar was sent to Ithaca, New York, as a delegate to the American Country Life Association, an organization formed by Theodore Roosevelt in 1907.

FOR THOSE who cannot spare the time it takes to glance through the table of contents, the question is likely to arise: "Where are the staff pictures of the Vidette and Index?" At first blush this page would seem the logical place to include the panel of the Vidette staff, thus placing it directly beneath the panelled picture of its sponsor.

BUT THE TWO publications this year have been regarded not as intramural affairs, too often they become only that, but rather as intercollegiate representatives of the school. For this reason you will find the publication staffs and an account of their year's work in the Feature Albums at the end of the intercollegiate groups which The Index is publishing in album form.—THE EDITOR.

Vice President . . . . . HARRIET MEADOWS
Secretary-Treasurer . . . . . MISS KATHERINE CARVER

The Latin Club, which was organized in 1920, aims to promote interest in the study of Latin, and to provide a common meeting ground for those interested in the classical studies. Regular meetings are held at seven-thirty o'clock, on the third, seventh, and eleventh Tuesdays of each term.

The programs consist of talks or papers given by the members. Topics concerning Vergil, Roman women, Roman theatres, Roman homes, and other subjects of interest to the Latin student have been discussed. An enjoyable Christmas party was held, at which the "Rudeus Plautus," a play, was given, and gifts were exchanged. Continuing through the year, varied and interesting programs have been given.

In general, however, those organizations appearing here with the faculty panels are curricular groups. Individual or team pictures of the various intercollegiate teams are to be found in chronological order in the Features section.

EQUALLY IMPORTANT collections of action pictures and intramural groups will be found in the Event section, placed chronologically.—THE EDITOR.

GAMMA PHI

Alpha Chapter

President ..... CARL UNSICKER
Vice President ..... HARRY VANGUNDY

Sponsor ..... MR. C. E. HORTON

The Illinois Alpha Chapter of Gamma Phi has reached its third year of functioning at Illinois State Normal University. Gamma Phi is an honorary gymnastic fraternity, having high standards for qualification for membership.

The objectives of Gamma Phi are to promote the interest of physical education among the students of the University, to honor gymnastic excellence in the individual members of the student body and of the faculty of the University by election to membership.

The development and promotion of the welfare of our organization is due to the untiring efforts of Mr. C. E. Horton, our Physical Education Director, and Sponsor of our organization.

Vice President ..... MURRAY WALLACE
Secretary ..... CLARK STARR
Treasurer ..... LYLE HUTTON
Sponsor ..... JOSEPH T. COGDAL

Practically every school in the "Little Nineteen" has a club on its campus whose membership is made up entirely of the lettermen of the school. Old Normal has such a club on its campus. It is known as the "N" Club.

At the beginning of the winter term the "N" Club sponsored the pre-season basketball game between the last year's champions and "Connors Empires," a strong amateur team from Springfield. The proceeds of this game went toward purchasing new suits for the band and the providing of a new trophy case, which has become a necessity since Normal's phenomenal rise in athletics. The "N" Club has also been very active in the intramural program during the past year, finishing near the head of the list every term.

There seems to be an added interest in the "N" Club during the past year. This is only as it should be, as any school with such an athletic standing as Normal has obtained in the past few years should have a very strong numeral organization on its campus. We sincerely hope that the "N" Club has finally started to come into its own and hope for a bigger and better organization next year.

PHYSICAL EDUCATION

President ..... CARRIE VOGT
Secretary-Treasurer ..... DOROTHY HARMON
Sponsor ..... MISS BARTO

The Physical Education Club consists of students majoring in physical education work. Meetings are held at seven-thirty on alternate Thursdays. Speakers are obtained to talk on different subjects. Miss Buell discussed "Etiquette". Miss Ross spoke on "Dress Design"; she was assisted by members of the Home Economics Club. Dean

Barton talked about "The place of women on the college campus."

The social affairs have been varied. The upper classmen entertained the freshmen, who in turn entertained their big sisters. A delightful buffet supper was held in the W.A.A. room for the members and faculty guests. Social dances and folk dances complete the events.

The Physical Education Club is under the supervision of Miss Barto, the head of the Physical Education Department.

ORCHESIS

Orchesis, a national dramatic organization, has had another successful and enjoyable year under the direction of Miss Emma Lakin, assisted by the president, Marcia Hoskins.

Through self expression and interpretation the members have been able to grow in natural ability and in music appreciation. The organization is in two divisions, Junior orchesis open to all girls in school who care to attend, and Senior orchesis, which consists of selected members after try-outs are held in January. Both groups meet every Wednesday night.

The outstanding achievement of the society was the presentation of its fifth annual dance recital, April 15, 1932, in Capen Auditorium.

The Home Economics Club meets the first, third, fifth, seventh, ninth and eleventh weeks of each term. The purpose of the club is to afford an opportunity for a closer friendship among the girls in the department through social activities, and to discuss topics relating to the home.

In October a formal initiation service was held at which thirty-five students became members; the alumnae members were entertained at the annual Homecoming dinner; the "Toonerville Trolley" was entered in the Hobo Parade, in which the organization received honorable mention.

In November a Thanksgiving basket was packed and given to a family in Normal.

In December a program was devoted to Ellen H. Richards, who was the first president of the American Home Economics Association.

In January health talks were given.

In February the club was addressed by Miss Frances Swain, President of the American Home Economics Association.

In March a style show was presented by Miss Cooper's advanced dressmaking class.

The Euclidean Circle consists of members of the faculty of the Mathematics Department, all alumni who have majored in mathematics, and those students who maintain an average of eighty or above in three or more courses in mathematics. Regular meetings are held at seven o'clock Thursday evening of the third, seventh, and eleventh weeks of each term.

It is the purpose of the organization to study and discuss problems and present movements in mathematics not provided for by the present curriculum.

Instructive and social programs were presented during the year. On October 1, the members were guests at a lawn supper given by the Mathematics Department at the home of Professor Mills. The fourth annual Homecoming breakfast was held at the Alamo. On December 17 the members were entertained at the home of John and Kingsley Corrington. During the Spring term Miss Blaine Boicourt of the Music Department assisted in giving a most interesting evening on "Music and Mathematics."

THE CHORAL CLUB

The Choral Club of I.S.N.U. is an organization of students who are interested in studying and singing good music. The large membership, ranging between ninety and one hundred fifteen, has been most gratifying, and is partly responsible for the very successful year for the club. The bass and tenor sections have been markedly stronger this year than in previous years.

It is the custom of the Choral Club to present three concerts each year, two secular concerts in the Fall and Winter terms, and a sacred concert before commencement. This is the first year in the twenty-nine years of its existence that the Choral Club has failed to give the three concerts. The Fall concert was cancelled, owing to the death of Mr. Westhoff's son.

Twice each week, on Monday and Thursday evenings, the Club meets for rehearsals.

The Lowell Mason Club is an organization for all students in Curriculum D, the curriculum in music. The Club, named after the Father of Public School Music, Dr. Lowell Mason, was founded ten years ago, and has been very active and beneficial ever since. The meetings are held every two weeks, on Wednesday evenings, at which problems of musical interest are discussed.

The club studied the lives, works, and characteristics of the works of the great composers, beginning with John Sebastian Bach, the "father of modern music." A luncheon was given at Homecoming and a party for the new members on November 24th.

THE SERENADE

"The Serenade" was made with a piece of bent wire for a tree, several sheets of folded note-paper, one of which had the window cut in it, for the house, and a drawing of a guitar player. It is an example of effective photography using very simple materials.

MEN'S GLEE CLUB

This year the Men's Glee Club has taken on a remarkable growth. Under the able leadership of its sponsor, Miss Blaine Boicourt, we have enjoyed a large membership and have filled a variety of engagements. The various parts have been well balanced and the club has always received a hearty response from its audiences. We have obtained considerable new music, enabling the club to prepare a varied repertoire for almost any occasion.

Early in the season a picked quartet composed of Edgar Winebrenner, first tenor; Harold Huggins, second tenor; Willard Christner, first bass; and Rudolph Schwarz, second bass, assisted in broadcasting a musical program sponsored by I.S.N.U. over WMBD of Peoria, Illinois.

Other engagements which the Glee Club has filled this season are:

First Presbyterian Church of Normal, November 8 and January 31.

Second Presbyterian Church of Bloomington.

Armistice Day program, I.S.N.U.

George Washington Day program, I.S.N.U.

Homecoming Play, I.S.N.U.

Towanda Corn Show, Towanda, Illinois.

American Legion "Hu-Du," Normal, Illinois.

Orchesis Dance Recital, April 15, Normal, Illinois.

The Club is now busy preparing a spring concert to be given for the student body. This we anticipate to be our crowning event of the season and we are endeavoring to put our best effort into this concert.

The club is organized for the purpose of bringing about an interest and appreciation of nature not only for those planning to teach nature study but for the student body in general.

The past year has been an exceedingly profitable one for the Nature Study Club. The membership of the organization is approximately fifty members.

The club holds its meetings monthly, at which time interesting and timely papers are presented by capable persons. Among the programs which have been given during the year were talks by Dr. R. G. Buzzard, Mr. J. E. Fraley, Dr. Lela A. Ewers, Lloyd Roth and Ruth Richards.

In addition to the regular meetings, a few social meetings have been held. In September an initiation party was held, to welcome the new members. In October the club held a wiener roast at Forest Park. In May the club held its annual picnic.

The Nature Study Club completes one or more major projects each year.

The Science Club consists of faculty members from the Science Department, and outstanding students in science work, who are elected by a committee of faculty and student members. Meetings are held at six-thirty on Tuesday evening of the second, sixth, and tenth weeks of each term.

The three-fold purpose of the club is to cultivate and foster interest in science among its members, to keep its members informed regarding the recent advances in science, and to stimulate its members to scientific study in advance of the immediate requirements of the class room.

Gamma Theta Upsilon is a national, professional, geography fraternity, which was organized on the I.S.N.U. campus. Before the World War Dr. Robert G. Buzzard had conceived the idea of a national fraternity in geography, but it was not until in May of 1928, with the help and co-operation of students interested in geography, that this idea was realized. Since then the local fraternity has grown into a national fraternity, with chapters established in four additional leading teachers' colleges in the United States.

Chapters accepted into the fraternity are: Alpha Chapter at I.S.N.U., May 15, 1928; Beta Chapter at Iowa State Teachers' College, Cedar Falls, Iowa, May 15, 1931; Gamma Chapter at Sam Houston State Teachers' College, Huntsville, Texas, May 15, 1931; Delta Chapter at the State Teachers' College, Bloomsburg, Pennsylvania, May 15, 1931; and Epsilon Chapter at the Southwest State Teachers' College, Springfield, Missouri, on December 18, 1931.

The local chapter has one hundred sixty-one members; the national fraternity has two hundred thirty-six.

The Social Science Club was founded January 28, 1929, with sixteen charter members. The local organization, with thirty-four charter members, on May 22, 1930, became the Illinois Theta chapter of the national social science honor fraternity, Pi Gamma Mu.

An individual is eligible to Pi Gamma Mu in his junior or senior year if he has an average of eighty-five in eight social science subjects; however, the Social Science club was continued as a co-organization with the requirements of an average of eighty-five in six social science subjects. There are over a hundred members of Pi Gamma Mu, with nearly thirty members on the campus. Rita Pierce is the only charter member on the campus. Social Science club has a membership of thirty members, with twenty members on the campus.

Several joint meetings with the Illinois Iota chapter at Illinois Wesleyan, and Illinois Gamma at Bradley, were held. Plans were made for an observance of the local founder's day.

The Women's Debate Club, consisting of a group of able young women, has attempted to make its members conscious of current problems confronting the American people of this year.

The club holds its meetings every two weeks. Through participation in debate each of the young women has the opportunity to become a better speaker.

During the Fall term the club was entertained at a dinner debate given by the Men's Club at Campus Inn. The question discussed was: "Resolved; That Prohibition Is a Detriment to the Best Interests of the American People." The affirmative side of the question, upheld by the Men's Club, was presented by Willard Brinegar and Lyle Yeck; the negative, upheld by the Women's Club, was presented by Ruth Walker and Lilith Southgate. The clubs hope to make a permanent feature of these inter-club debates each term, for the purpose of exchange of ideas and the creation of good fellowship.

The Men's Debate Club has enjoyed a very successful season this year. The sponsor, Dr. J. R. Patty of the Physics department, a new member of the faculty, took much interest in the club and has given us much help. The fact that the debaters to represent

I.S.N.U. in a pre-season debate against the University of Illinois were to be chosen from the active membership of the club gave added impetus and drew some of the best debaters of the campus into its membership. On December second an affirmative team, composed of Robert Duncan, R. W. Schwarz and Herbert Martin, traveled to the University of Illinois, while on the same night a negative team composed of William Cockerill, Wendell Oliver, and Thomas Barger, Jr., debated at home against a University of Illinois team. Both were non-decision debates, but we felt that in each case our teams made a creditable showing.

During the winter term the Club was defeated by the Women's Debate Club at a dinner debate held at the Campus Inn. The two clubs, however, will clash again during the Spring term, when we hope to turn the tables on the ladies.

At the regular weekly meetings of the club, which are held each Tuesday evening at seven-fifteen in Wrightonia Hall, various questions of interest are debated among the members.

The Illinois Delta chapter of Theta Alpha Phi, national honorary dramatic fraternity, was organized on I.S.N.U. campus April 10, 1926. At the present time the membership has increased to 120 members. For the first time in the history of the Normal chapter two of its members have been sent to surrounding community centers to coach plays.

On February 17 and 25, Theta Alpha Phi, in collaboration with Jesters, sponsored two of four one-act plays, "The Short Cut," coached by Irene Emerson, and "Cabbages," coached by Dorothy Lee.

On March 16, 1932, Theta Alpha Phi presented the three-act play, "The Black Flamingo," a seventeenth century French mystery play, written by Jim Janney. This play was under the direction of Miss Mabel Clare Allen, dramatic instructor in the University.

Founder's day for the local chapter was observed with a luncheon at the Campus Inn, during which time Dr. Buzzard presented the original charter to the organization.

Spring initiation was held at the home of Miss Allen, near Peoria.

Other active members besides the officers are:

The Jesters, a local dramatic organization, has been one of the most active organizations on the campus. After the Homecoming play eighteen new members were initiated, first informally in a manner that few of the neophytes will forget, and then formally following a dinner at the Presbyterian Church.

The Jesters aided Theta Alpha Phi in holding a reception, after the Saturday night performance of the Homecoming play, for all former members, active members, and members of the play and its production staff.

On February 17 and February 25 the Jesters sponsored two one-act plays which were presented with two Theta Alpha Phi one-act plays. The plays were "Rich Man, Poor Man" directed by Lois Lawrence and "The Lost Elevator" directed by Georgene Larson.

On February 19, 1932, the members spent a hilarious evening at a Bowery Party, given at the home of Esther Wiggle.

The three-act play, "Peg o' My Heart," written by J. Hartley Manners, was presented on May 20 by the Jesters, under the supervision of Kingsley Corrington, assisted by Georgene Larson.

Dawn, April 9, saw seventeen eager neophytes awaiting instructions to be fulfilled in order to become members of the ancient organization. They were repaid by a bountiful breakfast, served at the home of John and Rufus Corrington.

Active membership has numbered over fifty for the year.

PI KAPPA DELTA

Eta Chapter

The Illinois Eta Chapter of Pi Kappa Delta, national forensic fraternity, has been quite active during the past year. The membership has grown rapidly and the active members have been prominent in all branches of speech work. During the week of Homecoming the chapter held a banquet, in keeping with the anniversary of the university, that was attended by many former active members. The climax of the activities of the year was the National Convention at Tulsa, Oklahoma, held between March 28 and April 1. Eta Chapter sent the largest delegation present at the convention and was quite successful, all contestants ranking high in the various events.

Ruth O. Walker won third place in women's oratory, a very commendable achievement. Professor Fred S. Sorrenson was elected Provincial Secretary-Treasurer of Illinois. Participants in the contests were members: Thomas M. Barger, Jr., Martin Herbert, Ruth O. Walker, Helen Beckenholdt; pledges: Percy P. Downey, William Cockerill, Jean Eddy and Lucille Thompson. The two representatives were Orval Yarger and Wendell E. Olliver. Miss Mabel Clare Allen and Dr. C. F. Malmberg, sponsor of the chapter, were the faculty representatives.

The Kindergarten Club composed of faculty members and students has an enrollment of eighty-six.

The purpose of the club, which was organized in 1917, is to discuss problems relating to elementary education and to promote social relationships.

The various social events that were carried on by the club this year started early in October with a welcome party, when the "big sisters" entertained their "little sisters" at a wiener roast.

A Homecoming luncheon was held at the Methodist Church, with eighty-five alumnae and active members present.

The Annual Christmas party was held in the Kindergarten room, which was adorned with a beautiful Christmas tree. Frances Ayer told Raymond Alden's story, "Why the Chimes Rang."

At the close of the year, the annual banquet honoring the Sophomores, was given.

The club won first place in the Homecoming hobo parade with the presentation of a "Hobo Wedding."

Several interesting programs were presented throughout the year.

Miss Neva McDavitt spoke on "Possibilities of Nature With Little Children."

A report on the National Association of Nursery Education was given by Miss Grace Tucker.

Miss Margaret E. Hall, Psychiatrist at the Childrens' School, spoke on "Behaviour Problems In the School Room."

"Personality Before Five" was discussed by Hazel A. Turney and Catherine Dwyer.

Miss Grace Shea, the school nurse, gave a report on "The Teacher's Responsibility for the Health of Children."

Miss Margaret E. Lee discussed "Poetry for Young Children."

At the close of the year Miss Josephine Colby gave an account of the annual meeting of the Association of Childhood Education, which was held in Washington, D. C.

The success of the club was due to the co-operation of Miss Lee, founder of the Kindergarten Club, and Miss Colby, the sponsor.

With the exception of teams in intercollegiate competition the Index has tried to place each organization picture as near as possible to the panel of its sponsor. For this reason the Kindergarten Club was not included in the Teachers College division, although the club is an active college organization whose competitive efforts demonstrate a marked superiority in several lines of endeavor.

THE CAMPUS DRIVE

Every year a number of faculty members are on leaves of absence, studying or traveling, more often studying. Nevertheless their names should be entered in any faculty list that pretends to be complete. This year there was a decided attempt made to secure a picture of every faculty member, and an excellent photograph contract made this possible without charge to faculty members. Consequently in the preceding album are listed practically all who were told of this arrangement. There seem, however, to have been a number of persons not informed of the plan, and the names of these are listed on the following page, after those members of the faculty who are this year studying elsewhere.—THE EDITOR.

FELL GATE IN OCTOBER

In mid-autumn when the leaves are still colorful and the skies are bright, these stone gates with their rich bronze ornaments and ornamental lights make a dignified and imposing entrance way to the campus in spite of the fact that during the day across this gateway stretches a massive chain to which is hung a little yellow sign saying "Stop."

FOR THE convenience of the reader who would turn to a particular organization immediately the all-school groups included in this album are listed below and in the column to the right.

Further mention of several of the organizations will be found in the Event Album.

THE APPORTIONMENT BOARD

The members of the apportionment board are: President Brown, Dr. Buzzard (Chairman), Prof. Richard G. Browne (secretary), Lillian Chambers, Dorothy Fitzgerald, Georgene Larson, Chandler Brown, and Donald Wardell, three from the faculty and five from the student body. Of the faculty members, Mr. Browne was selected for one year in the absence of Prof. H. W. Adams. Of the student members the terms of Miss Chambers, Miss Fitzgerald and Miss Larson expire in the spring of 1932, to be filled by student elections.

The year opened with the board finding itself beset with many requests for increased apportionments. Almost every all-school organization which shared in the student activity fee of three dollars per term wished to expand its activities. Most of the requests were legitimate. Fortunately the new plan of financing men's athletics with its own two dollar per term fee gave the board more funds for other organizations.

At the suggestion of President Brown the board evolved and adopted a new method of apportionment. Each organization was assigned a certain portion of each student's term fee, the total for each organization then being the portion multiplied by the numbers of students in school each term. It was hoped that this division would be changed only as certain definite inequalities appear. The largest shares were assigned to student publications, entertainment, to forensics, and to music.

The Athletic Board meets every Monday of the second, sixth and tenth week of each term, for the purpose of discussing methods of obtaining better athletics in the University.

The board awarded small gold shoes to the "Little 19" Cross Country Champions, and to the "Little 19" Indoor Track Champions; also letters were awarded to all men in athletics who met the requirements.

In the fall of 1931 the board had an all men's party at McCormick Field, at which time Chester Dillon was the chief speaker.

During the winter term a banquet was given at the Y.W.C.A. for all football and cross-country men.

At the close of the spring term, the board in co-operation with the Varsity Club sponsored a picnic dance for all lettermen in school.

FELL HALL, the residence hall for women on the campus at Illinois State Normal University, was planned with a view to using the spacious living room on the first floor for general school affairs, as well as for those given by the Hall residents. Consequently, this year as usual, a number of important school dances and receptions were held in Fell Hall. For records and pictures of many of these, readers will please turn to the album in which the year's events are listed chronologically.

The panel to the right furnishes a glimpse into the Hall.—THE EDITOR.

In the lower right hand corner of the panel a group of the girls are shown gathered for chit-chat in one of the rooms for students. Immediately above two of the residents are pictured in the living room downstairs, listening to the radio. To the left in the bottom row is the major part of the collection of dolls and pets the Fell Hall girls have accumulated.

The center picture in the panel shows a corner of the dining room with an intriguing glimpse of the living room beyond. Above this, to the left in the top row, a typical group has gathered around the piano. At the right, "Parting is such sweet sorrow!"

KAPPA DELTA Pi

Mu Chapter

President ..... ELINOR JOHNSON
Vice President ..... GERALD REYNOLDS
Secretary ..... HELEN WINSLOW
Treasurer ..... ALICE MAY PANNWITZ
Executive Committee ..... NAOMI MURPHY
THOMAS M. BARGER, JR.
Counselor ..... DEAN H. H. SCHROEDER

The high light of 1932 for Mu chapter of Kappa Delta Pi was the celebration of the tenth anniversary of its founding. An initiation, at which past presidents acted as installing officers, followed by a banquet, featured this gathering on March 5, 1932.

The annual Homecoming banquet on October 31, 1931, and commencement week banquet on June 7, 1932, were the two other social events of the year.

tion at Washington, D. C., February 22, 23, 24.

In June, 1931, the following people were initiated: Ella Mae Rosenthal, Margaret Reynolds, Garnet Van Vleet, Alvy Wilson, Irene Roth, William Barnhart, Evelyn Weaver, and Grace Speers; in March, 1932, William Azbell, Mrs. Emma Smith Blackman, Anna Jennie Brittin, Margaret Lorens Ekstrand, Emmaline Beatrice Griffin, and Carl Arthur Marquardt.

Kappa Delta Pi is a national honorary scholastic fraternity. Alpha Chapter was founded at the University of Illinois on March 4, 1922. There are now eighty-five chapters of Kappa Delta Pi in the leading universities and normal schools of the United States.

LEAGUE OF WOMEN VOTERS

President ..... MABEL WALDMER REMMERS
Vice President ..... INEZ L. BUTZ
Secretary ..... FRANCES VAN HUSS
Treasurer ..... DOROTHY E. TEGARD
Sponsor ..... MISS LORA DEXHEIMER

The Illinois State Normal Student League of Women Voters was organized in 1929, as part of the Citizenship Committee of the Women's League.

On April 8 and 9 the Illinois League of Women Voters and the Student League of I.S.N.U. sponsored the first "New Voters State Conference."

Twenty colleges were represented at the sessions. State Senator Florence Fifer Bohrer and Mrs. W. W. Ramsay were the speakers at the conference. A joint meeting was held with the Central Board of the Women's League.

LECTURE BOARD

LECTURE BOARD MEMBERS

MR. R. H. LINKINS	EUGENE GREUEL
MISS GERTRUDE STEPHENS	HENRY SMITH
MISS BLAINE BOICOURT	EDWARD WINEBRENNER
INEZ BUTZ	MARY FERNE MARTIN

During the past year the Lecture Board endeavored to carry out its former policy of bringing to the students the great artists and thinkers of the day. To a large degree they were successful in doing this.

The outstanding musical number of the year was Roland Hayes, Negro tenor; the outstanding lecture was that of Philip Mac-

Govern. Other numbers of the year which were well received were the Dilling-Avireno concert early in the fall and the Chicago String Quartet during the spring term.

The numbers of the course were as follows:

October 19—Dilling-Avireno.

December 4—Roland Hayes.

January 27—St. Olaf Choir.

February 14—Edward Eigenschenk.

April 6—Helen Howe.

April 16—Philip MacGovern.

May 16—Chicago String Quartet.

MAIZE GRANGE

The Maize Grange was organized in Normal June 3, 1930, with a charter membership of twenty-six. The chapter was brought upon the University campus on February 10, 1931. At this time the first and second degrees were conferred upon thirty-six candidates, most of whom were students and faculty members of I.S.N.U. On December 13, 1931, twenty-two members drove to Madison, Wisconsin, to attend the national convention. They also took the national degree.

The Maize chapter of the National Grange is one of the eight thousand local chapters which make up the National Grange. The national organization is the oldest and strongest agricultural organization in the United States. The Grange has functioned for over sixty years and at the present time has a membership of over one million members.

The general objects of the National Grange are as follows:

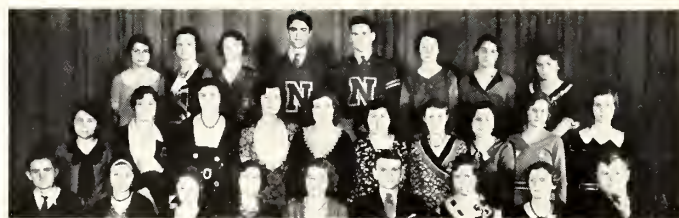

(1) United by the strong and faithful tie of agriculture, we mutually resolve to labor for the good of our order, our country, and mankind.

(2) We heartily endorse the motto: "In essentials, unity; in non-essentials, liberty; and in all things, charity."

The local chapter on the Normal University campus, together with the chapter on the campus of the University of Illinois, makes Illinois the only state in the union having two collegiate chapters of the Grange.

NEWMAN CLUB

President ..... MARIE CLAUDE
Vice President ..... RICHARD MIDDLETON
Secretary ..... LAURINE M. PIERSON
Treasurer ..... DONALD BARTH
Social Chairman ..... MARY YENERICH
Publicity Director ..... JOHN SHEA
Sponsor ..... MISS REGINA CONNELL

The Newman Club, which was founded in 1923, is an organization whose purpose is to enable the Catholic students and faculty members on the I.S.N.U. campus to be brought together in a closer social relationship. Meetings are held the second, sixth, and tenth Thursdays of each term.

The outstanding events of the year were the Homecoming breakfast, which was held at the Hotel Rogers; the visit to the Newman Club Foundation at the U. of I.; the Christmas party, the annual May Day breakfast, and a wiener roast.

Alumni and members this year have shown a great deal of interest in the club's activities, and the active membership has been larger than ever before.

Work in Philadelphia was taken up with the spirit of "Going On." This spirit was backed by Professor Palmer, who served his eighth year as sponsor of the society.

Owing to the enthusiasm of the old members and a booster program the limited membership was soon reached.

The Philadelphians entertained the Wrightonians in a joint meeting on December 14, with a special program and refreshments. During the course of the year the Philadelphians had a St. Valentine's party, a banquet, and a picnic.

Tryouts for the annual contest were held at the close of the fall term and beginning of the winter term with a large number of tryouts for each event.

Those active Philadelphians who were prominent in other campus activities were: Elinor Johnson, who won second place in the State Oratorical contest; Dora Lutz Nu Delman, who won the Livingston Extemporaneous contest; Thomas Barger Jr., Wendell Oliver, and Orval Yarger were members of the debate team, with Mr. Barger also being on the team which went to Tulsa, Oklahoma. Jean Eddy and Lola C. Conger were members of the special women's debate team with Miss Eddy going to the National Convention held in Oklahoma.

Honors were not limited to the present members but Clarence A. Miller, member of the class of '31 was awarded first prize in the World Peace Essay contest.

The Student Council of the University underwent a reorganization this year. Heretofore the Council had been large and unwieldy, and it was difficult to assemble a quorum. There were too many members since each organization on the campus sent a representative. This year the Student Council membership is composed of students from each class elected by the student body.

Four are selected from the Senior Class besides the president, three from the Junior Class, three from the Sophomore Class and two from the Freshman.

Other members of the Council are:

University Theatre consists of a group which acts as general manager for all plays produced on the campus.

During this school year it has made the new ruling of receiving one-half the proceeds of all plays produced under its auspices. Also, the paying of the electrician, property, and stage managers was found advisable in order to keep the stage in better and more fitting order.

The work of the Women's League for the year 1931-1932 was planned to carry on the program of previous years as well as to introduce new activities.

On October 6, 1931, a mass meeting was held in the auditorium to familiarize the women on the campus with the work of Women's League, and to urge them to participate in campus affairs. At this time the districting was completed and members of the central board were elected.

A chairman of records was added to the executive board, to supervise the compiling of a memory book.

Women's League is greatly indebted to the authorities of the Teachers' College for meeting their urgent request for a Woman's Room. This room, on the basement floor of the main building, has added immeasurably to the comfort, pleasure, and convenience of all women of the school.

From December 14 to December 18 the Women's League sponsored a series of programs of Christmas music in Capen Auditorium. These programs were arranged through the courtesy of the music department.

Other social activities sponsored by the Women's League were:

September 15, 1931—Varsity Club and Women's League all-school dance.

October 16, 1931—An all girls' party.

December 15, 1931—A tea for the Varsity Club and musical organizations.

January 27, 1932—An all-school tea.

January 30, 1932—Women's League all-school party.

February 10, 1932—A householders' tea.

March 12, 1932—A Women's League women's party.

April 1, 1932—Varsity Club and Women's League party.

Varsity Club

Treasurer . . . . . HARRY CADE

The Varsity Club looks back on a year in which plans were carried through to successful accomplishment. Due to the efforts of the members of the club and its sponsor, Dean Ralph H. Linkins, the club found it possible to sponsor some of the most enjoyable parties and programs of the year.

In furthering the religious life of the campus the men again sponsored the Christmas service and the Mothers' Day Service. At both services crowds filled the auditorium to overflowing, and an impressive program and elaborate decorations suitable to the occasion were enjoyed by all who attended.

For the social life on the campus the Varsity Club carried through the Pledge Dance, the term parties for Varsity Club men and their guests, and school parties open to the entire student body. By music, decorations, and social atmosphere these affairs contributed their share to the social life of the University.

Due to the co-operation of the faculty and the entire student body the Stunt Show succeeded in furnishing a highly enjoyable type of entertainment at the close of the college year.

Once again Wrightonia proved victorious. On the night of January 29, her contestants won another glorious victory in the annual Phil-Wright contest, which has become the most honored tradition of the school. After having lost the debates for several consecutive years, the society's debaters proved most conclusively that that honor does not always go to Philadelphia.

Those contestants who won this victory were: Ruth Walker and William Cockerill, debaters; Mildred Beatty, orator; Isabelle Purnell, vocalist; Inez Butz, extempore; Glenn Taylor, reading; Marjorie Roberts, piano.

The continued progressive spirit of the society and its keen enthusiasm are largely due to the unselfish and whole-hearted support of its sponsor, Mr. C. A. Harper.

The purpose of this organization is to bring the women of the school to a truer conception of Christianity, a higher ideal of life service, and a broader consciousness of universal human relations. Membership in this group is open to every woman in the school.

The Y.W.C.A. carries out an extensive program of events and activities every year. In the Fall they invite the girls of the school to an open house meeting and then to a walk-out breakfast.

The tea and open house meeting are held at their rooms, at 209 West Ash Street. On Sunday of Homecoming week-end they sponsor a sunrise prayer service for students and alumni. In November the new members are formally received at a beautiful candlelight service held at Fell Hall. Just before Christmas the organization sponsors a Japanese sale. At this time, too, they unite with the girls of Fell Hall in a White Christmas service. On the first Sunday evening of graduation week they act as sponsor to a special song service in Capen Auditorium.

Every year the Y.W.C.A. sends several delegates to the national conference at Geneva, Wisconsin. This year the organization has had the honor of having one of its members, Laura E. Smith, chosen to serve as a cabinet member of the National Student Council of the Y.W.C.A.

THIS CONCLUDES the section devoted to all-school organizations and the boards which act for the whole school, or the greater part of it at any rate, in various fields of interest.

In organizing the preceding album care was taken to place the organized groups in some logical order. The alphabetical faculty list, arranged from full professors to assistants and instructors, was the basis from which the album was started. Each organization has been placed as near its sponsor as is possible; all-school organizations were placed alphabetically.—THE EDITOR.

THE OLD FIR TREE IN SHERWOOD FOREST

In the following album will be found the pictures of many of the Freshmen who attended Normal University during the school year of 1931-1932. The album presents perhaps two-thirds of the entire Freshman class, and every effort has been made to give it authenticity and accuracy.

With this panel the albums of classes at Old Normal are complete, that is as complete as it was possible to make them.

No doubt errors have crept into their making; that is only to be expected when amateur journalists compile material.

But perhaps those parts of the album which are without error will serve as useful reference catalogs in the future.

In the spring, and on sunny autumn days, the shadow-flecked stonework of the Old Castle makes a rich delicate pattern in its tower and entrance way.

On the lawn before this doorway last year's open air band concerts were held, and here during the summer term, under gay strings of Japanese lanterns, the faculty held its reception for the students.

This building, the third oldest on the campus, is thought by many to be Normal's most picturesque.

THE ALBUM PRESENTED in the next seven pages includes the pictures and biographical sketches of a number of upper-classmen who have been active in campus affairs this year. The selection was made from representative lists prepared by the administrative faculty, but is not to be interpreted as complete. It should be understood that only in the broadest sense is the term "Representative Students" applied to those chosen. During the year the Index conducted a series of term elections at which the student body was to choose those persons whose activities were most outstanding, in quality, not quantity. The results of these elections are herewith recorded.—THE EDITOR.

GEORGENE LARSON

Tied with Jean Eddy in Fall Index Election

Miss Larson was born in November, 1913, at Des Moines, Iowa. She graduated from the Roosevelt High School there in 1929, having been active in dramatics, the literary club, the Y.W.C.A., and the G.A.A. She intended to become a college professor.

At Normal she has been active in Philadelphia, dramatics, and women's intercollegiate debating. She has been a member of the apportionment board since 1930. Of these activities dramatic work has become her major interest and she wants some day to have her own dramatic studio.

JEAN EDDY

Winner with Miss Larson as noted above

Miss Eddy was born at East St. Louis, Illinois, in September, 1912. She graduated from C. E. Byrd High School in Shreveport, Louisiana, in 1928. There her chief interests had been in the Girl Reserves and the Literary Society. She wanted to enter social service work when she graduated.

Her first two years of college work were at Centenary College, Shreveport; from there she transferred to Normal. Here speech work and Philadelphian Literary Society work have been dominant interests. Today she thinks she would like to become chief of staff in some large library, but she isn't sure.

ORVAL F. YARGER

Winner in Index Winter Election

Mr. Yarger was born in Paris, Illinois, October 12, 1908. In Bloomington High School, which he attended, debating was his main activity. He graduated in 1926 and entered Normal University that fall, intending to prepare himself to be a certified public accountant.

Debates, curricular organizations and fraternities, as well as important all-school positions such as president of the student council, and business manager of the Index, comprise his major activities in college. He wants to be Governor of Illinois.

LYLE HUTTON

Winner in Index Fall Election

Mr. Hutton was born in Savanna, Illinois, in 1912. He graduated from the township high school there in 1930. Athletics dominated his high school activities, football, basketball, and track being his sports. Upon graduation he decided to become a coach, and also to prepare to teach Industrial Arts, and entered Normal University in the fall of 1930.

For two years he has been a member of Normal's cross country squad, and track team, starring in the distance events. His curricular organizations are in the fields of interest already indicated. His high school ambition remains unchanged.

ORVAL YARGER

CAROLINE PITTS

Miss Pitts was born in December, 1912, at McLean, Illinois. She graduated from high school there in 1930. Her interests had been mainly in dramatics and music, but she wanted to be a mathematics teacher.

While studying mathematics at Normal she has been Honor Resident and Social Chairman at Fell Hall, secretary of the Women's League, and a member of various curricular organizations. She now wants to secure a master's degree in mathematics at Columbia.

ANN UZA

Winner in Index Winter Election

Miss Uza comes from Aurora, Illinois, where she was born in 1914. Before she graduated from high school in 1930 she had been associate editor of the yearbook and newspaper, senior class historian, and had played basketball. She wanted to be a second Helen Wills.

At Normal she has been president of Fell Hall, of the Sophomore class. She has also been a member of the Central and Executive Boards of the Women's League. Her present ambition is to become a columnist on some great metropolitan daily.

CAROLINE PITTS

ANN UZA

ROLAND ZOOK

ROLAND ZOOK

In February, 1910, at Chandlerville, Illinois, Roland Zook was born. He went to high school at University High in Normal; however, was active in athletics and debate, starring in basketball. He wanted to be a coach.

Here at Normal he has been active in athletics since his entrance in 1927. He is a member of several campus organizations and fraternities. Although a commerce major, he still plans to coach.

HOWARD OETTING

Howard Oetting was born at Alton, Illinois, in August, 1907. He matriculated at Wood River High School, graduating in 1926. He participated in sports and dramatics, besides being a member of the student council and president of the Senior class. He graduated with the ambition to be a window trimmer.

At Normal his interest in athletics has continued. He has also been social chairman of the Sophomore class and the "N" club. He likes chemistry and intends to continue this science in graduate work.

ALICE PANWITT

ALICE PANWITT

Miss Panwitt was born in March, 1912, at Nokomis, Illinois. She graduated from high school there in 1928, having participated in commerce contests, having been active in the foreign language clubs, the literary club. Her high school ambition was to be an architect.

On the campus at Normal she belongs to three Greek letter organizations, and has been honor resident at Fell Hall. Her present ambition is to teach in Alaska.

ELINOR JOHNSON

Miss Johnson started life at Wessington Springs, South Dakota, in September, 1911, but graduated from the University High School at Normal in 1928. She was a member of the G.A.A. and the Literary society, as well as the Girls' Glee club. Her ambition was to teach Latin.

She has shown herself even more versatile in college. She can make speeches, play ball, earn membership in Kappa Delta Pi, and work with the Jester stage crew with equal felicity. This year her name has been added to W.A.A.'s bronze honor roll. She now wants to own a fashion shop on fashionable Fifth Avenue in New York.

LESLIE MOORE

Born in 1909 at Chicago Ridge, Illinois, Leslie Moore nevertheless attended high school at Strawn and Cornell, Illinois, graduating in 1928. His high school activities were basketball, track, and dramatics; his high school ambition was to become a doctor.

At Normal, where he has worked his way through school, he has been active in dramatics, the "N" club, and athletics, basketball being his major sport. Captain of this year's basketball team, he topped four years of stellar play by being voted the most valuable player in the entire conference. He intends to coach.

WILBUR REECE

In Normal, Illinois, during 1910, Wilbur Reece was born. He graduated from University High where he had been active in debating, journalism, and the high school band. He wanted to study dentistry.

At Normal, science work has occupied his attention. He has been president of his class in the freshman and senior years. He has also been a member of various all-school boards and the Vidette staff. Outside of school he has worked in the library. He wants to do graduate work in science.

HELEN WINSLOW

Miss Winslow was born at Fairbury, Illinois, but graduated from St. Patrick's High School in Chatsworth, Illinois. Here she had been active in the school orchestra and the girls' glee club. She wanted to become a journalist.

Her college career has been marked by activity in a number of curricular organizations and membership in Kappa Delta Pi. She has been an honor resident of Fell Hall for two years. She wants someday to be a Home Economics journalist on the staff of a women's magazine.

ALICE MCBRIDE

Miss McBride was born in January, 1910, at Hope dale, Illinois. She graduated from high school there in 1928, having been active in music organizations and the literary society. She wanted to attend a music school.

Coming to Normal instead she has been active in Philadelphia and various music societies, the Lowell Mason club, Choral and Glee clubs. She is a member of several Greek letter organizations on the campus and is on the Central Board of the Women's League. She wants to become a singer.

HELEN WINSLOW

RUDOLPH E. LEASMAN

RUDOLPH E. LEASMAN

Born at Arrowsmith, Illinois, in 1909, he attended high school there, graduating in 1928. His high school interests inclined toward sports, although he also took part in dramatic work. It was his ambition to become a chemist.

At Normal he was president of his class during the junior year, has served as president, treasurer of the Varsity club, as executive on the student council, and has taken part in intramural athletics.

He still intends to be a chemist.

THOMAS M. BARGER, JR.

Barger was born in Cicero, Illinois, July 15, 1912, but matriculated some years later at University High School in Normal. He graduated from there in 1929, having been interested in sports, music, dramatics, and debating. His ambition was to become a certified public accountant.

After entering Normal University in 1929 he continued a number of these high school interests. He served on the staffs of both school publications in 1930, became editor of the annual in 1931. His senior year has seen him more active in dramatics and debating, less active in journalism. He wants to do graduate work in economics and political science, be able to retire at thirty.

JEAN FLOCKHART

JEAN FLOCKHART

Miss Flockhart was born at Greybull, Wyoming, in September, 1911. However, she matriculated at the high school in Streator, Illinois. There she was active in dramatics, the G.A.A., and language clubs. She was a member of the annual staff. At that time she wanted to travel extensively in remote corners of the world.

In Normal University she has been most active in dramatics, social chairman of a number of events sponsored by the Women's League, and in debating. She has helped put herself through school by part-time work. Today she wants to do social service work in the southern highlands.

IRENE EMMERSON

Miss Emerson is from Stonington where she was born in November, 1911. She graduated from high school there in 1928, having been president of her class during the sophomore, junior, and senior years. Dramatics and the G.A.A. were her chief interests. She wanted to be a dramatic coach.

At college she has continued her dramatic work, been a member of several publication staffs, in the Womens' Glee club, and director of a high school play. She intends to teach social science, later attend a dramatic school.

HARRY C. CADE

HARRY C. CADE

Harry Cade was born in Whitehall, Illinois, in 1910, first attended high school at University High in Normal, later transferred to Milton, graduating there in 1928. Athletics and dramatics were his chief high school interests. He wanted to get two years of college education, and then study aviation.

After entering Normal University in 1929 he continued his work in dramatics, served on the athletic board and the last two Index staffs. He has worked outside of school at the Faculty club, later as student assistant in the Biology department, by this means being able to continue his schooling.

He wants to become a teacher of bacteriology.

KINGSLEY CORRINGTON

At Normal, Illinois, in December, 1908, Kingsley Corrington was born. He attended high school at Edinburg, Illinois, and Normal, graduating from the latter school in 1927. In high school his chief interest was music, he also debated, took part in plays. He was a member of the annual staff in his senior year.

At Normal University science and the theatre have occupied his time. He is assistant chemist for the Bloomington-Normal Sanitary District. He wants to become a Dr. of Physiological Chemistry.

DOROTHY FITZGERALD

Miss Fitzgerald was born at Lockport, Illinois, in February, 1911. She graduated from Providence High School, Joliet, Illinois, in 1929. There she was active as president of the sophomore class, leading lady in the senior play and as a member of the French club. She wanted to become a social secretary.

At Normal University she has been on two annual staffs, secretary of Fell Hall organization, and a member of the apportionment board since 1930. She wants now to be a linguist.

MARY YENERICH

Miss Yenerich was born in November, 1911, at Pawpaw, Illinois. She graduated from high school there in 1927. Her high school activities had been for the most part in dramatics and speech. She wanted, however, to become an ideal Latin teacher.

After two years' work at the College of St. Theresa, in Winona, Minnesota, she entered Normal. Dramatics, Philadelphian literary society and curricular organizations comprise her chief activities here. She wants to be the head of the Foreign Language Department at Wyandotte, Michigan.

MARY YENERICH

MELVIN JAMES NICOL

Mr. Nicol was born March 4, 1909, at Pontiac, Illinois. Graduated from high school there in 1927, he entertained the ambition of working in the field of agricultural research. In school athletics, dramatics, music and journalism occupied his time.

Although he entered Normal during the mid-spring term of 1928, he taught during the regular school year from 1927 until 1929, in which year he began regular attendance here.

Agriculture organizations, journalism, and sports are among his extra-curricular activities. He plans to do graduate work in science, agriculture, and chemistry.

DONALD C. WARDELL

Mr. Wardell was born in St. Francisville, Illinois, on August 19, 1910. He attended Jacksonville High School two years, transferring in 1926 to Normal. Here he was active in athletics, speech work, and the band and orchestra, as well as being president of the Senior class and a member of the annual staff. His ambition, when he graduated in 1927, was to go to college.

In order to gain this end he has worked at a number of different part-time and full-time jobs since entering Normal University, yet he has found time to take part in athletics, band and orchestra concerts, and to serve as social chairman of the Varsity club. His main ambition still centers around continuing his schooling.

RITA PIERCE

Miss Pierce was born at El Paso, Illinois, in February, 1909. She graduated from high school there in 1927, having been active on the school yearbook, G.A.A., Music Club and Elphi Literary Club. She hoped to become a lawyer.

Her Normal University activities have centered in the main around dramatic all-school organizations and the curricular Social Science organizations, although her interests have been wide. Today she wants to be a second Ruth Hannah McCormick.

INEZ BUTZ

Winner in Index Spring Election

Miss Butz was born in September, 1905, at Dwight, Illinois. She graduated from high school there in 1923, having been active in dramatics, yearbook work and girls' athletics. She wanted to become a writer.

At Normal, where she entered after teaching three years in a rural school near Dwight, she has been chiefly active in Wrightonia, on newspaper and annual staffs, as well as president of the Lecture Board in 1932. Having already traveled extensively in the United States and through England, she intends next to proceed entirely around the world, using the experiences thus gained for lectures, articles.

INEZ L. BUTZ

HENRY H. SMITH

MARVIN JOHN NICOL

Winner in Index Spring Election

Nicol was born in Pontiac, Illinois, in 1909. In 1927 he graduated from Pontiac Township high school, had been active in athletics, dramatic, music and newspaper work. He wanted to become an extension worker with the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

He taught for two years following graduation, attended Normal University part of each year, entering to attend regularly in 1929. His college activities include sports, journalism, and a number of curricular organizations. He now wants to do graduate work in science at Purdue.

HENRY HOLMES SMITH

Born in 1909 at Bloomington, Illinois, he graduated in 1927 from high school there, cartooning and stage-work being his major interests. He entered Normal that fall. Attempting free-lance drawing in 1927 and 1928, he submitted three hundred contributions, sold three ideas and eleven drawings to The New Yorker, Collier's, The Chicagoan. In March, 1929, he exhibited with the New York Independents, in August, at a show of Chicago artists. In 1930 he made wood carvings, marionettes; in 1931, photographs.

At Normal he has tried journalism and typographical design. He wants to work in cinema production as anything from "prop-boy" to film editor.

THE INDEX QUARTERLY ELECTIONS FOR FACULTY MEMBERS

DURING THE ELECTIONS held by the 1932 Index to determine which students had made the most outstanding contribution to the school's activities of each quarter, faculty members were nominated and a popular vote of the school was taken on their activities. The nominations were in the form of petitions signed by thirty-five students.

Several outstanding faculty members were nominated each term, all of whom deserve mention here for the work which they are doing. In the fall term, however, the student vote placed Miss Mabel Clare Allen and Christian Harpster first for their contributions to the Homecoming program of 1931, Miss Allen having directed the Homecoming play, Mr. Harpster having been chairman of the Homecoming Committee. A picture of Miss Allen is on page 80, one of Mr. Harpster on page 85.

DEAN O. L. BARTON and Coach J. T. Cogdal were chosen in the winter term. Miss Barton today is President of the Illinois Association of Deans of Women, and for five years has been Chairman of the Membership Committee of the National Association of Deans of Women. Coach Cogdal in addition to his work with a stellar basketball team also coached Normal University's champion indoor track and field team. Miss Barton's picture is on page 77; Mr. Cogdal's on page 63.

FELL HALL FROM THE SOUTH CAMPUS

The strong sunlight of September mornings brings a weird grandeur to the south facade of Old Main. The deep shadows in the wooden pediments, the startling contrast of the old masonry and the painted wooden sills, and the smart rhythm of the arched upper windows, all combine to produce this effect.

Old Main, when viewed from this angle (and why shouldn't it be viewed from this angle too?) seems almost to have been designed from a pattern by Leger.

Yet it is the oldest Normal School building in use in the United States.

THE MOST ACTIVE all-season organization representing Illinois State Normal University at inter-collegiate contests is the Band. This is said with due respect to the many excellent seasonal groups representing the school in athletics and speech. This year the Normal University Band, of which an album of thirty-two members is here published, has done more on less money than any other all-school organization on the campus. It is to be noted that aggressive leadership has been responsible for the development of this program in spite of little financial encouragement from the Student Fees. No small amount of credit is due Kenyon S. Fletcher, director of the Band.—THE EDITOR.

Miss Emma Lakin, instructor in dancing, does her part for W.A.A. by directing Orchestis, which gives a recital every spring. She also directs the stunt for the Varsity Club Stunt Show.

To Miss Juanita Ann Brown, our instructor in swimming and baseball, W.A.A. owes its success in the telegraphic swimming meet, and also its enjoyable baseball season.

To Miss Berneice Frey is due much of the success of the intramural program this year. She has helped teach hockey, soccer, basketball, and track to the members of W.A.A. and to Intramural participants.

Miss Marguerite Field, sponsor of W.A.A., has aided especially in teaching bowling and archery. She has also been very co-operative in coaching referees for all intramural games this year.

THE "N" WOMEN

The "N" of the Women's Athletic Association is an honorary award given girls whose sportsmanship, scholarship and service to the association are of especial note. To engrave a girl's name on the bronze plaque which hangs in the foyer of the women's gymnasium is the highest possible award of the association. The "N" women and the one whose name is to be placed in bronze are named in the next column.

WOMEN'S INTERCOLLEGIATE DEBATE TEAMS

THE QUESTION for the women's intercollegiate debate was: "Resolved, that the United States should offer to participate in the cancellation of all inter-governmental World War debts, including reparations."

Six of the seven debates held were decision contests. The affirmative team, composed of Ruth Walker, Lilith Southgate and Dora Nu Delman, won all their debates, meeting Augustana, Wheaton, Shurtleff and Monmouth.

The negative teams, composed of Jane Ingram, Alice Kimmel and Georgene Larson, lost to Wheaton and Augustana. Dr. Sorrenson and Professor Kinneman coached both negative and affirmative teams.

MEN'S INTERCOLLEGIATE DEBATE TEAMS

A highlight of the men's debate season was the Oxford debate. The Oxford team, Boyd-Carpenter and Foot, representing Oxford University, Oxford, England, divided for the Normal debate, each pairing with a representative of Normal University. The Normal men were Thomas Barger, Jr., and Orval Yarger.

Eleven students and faculty members represented Normal University at the National Oratorical Contest and Debate Tournament conducted by Pi Kappa Delta at Tulsa, Oklahoma, in March.

COLLEGE NIGHTS

By Harold W. Homann

THE 1932 INDEX during the autumn quarter conducted a prize contest for amateur photographers in school. The photographs were to be judged for their general appeal, originality and photographic excellence. Out of the seventy-five entrants the choice narrowed down to the two prints shown on this page. In the last vote the award was given to Harold W. Homann's print, College Nights, because of its originality and the technical facility displayed in securing this picture of the photographer and his roommate.

THE PRINT called Campus Shadows, entered in the contest by Martha M. Weber, was a very close second, and no doubt the judges will be censured by many persons for letting the second judging point influence them in making the final choice.

—THE EDITOR.

THE MCCORMICK GYMNASIUM IN NOVEMBER

On misty autumn days, when the pattern of light and shade, which every architect expects to set off his building to best advantage, is weakest, the new gymnasium still presents a strong, but somewhat ambiguous style of architecture.

IN DESIGNING the format of the 1932 Index it was desired to present the material in either formal albums or informal albums, and these were prepared with the idea of keeping them separate if possible. To do this meant breaking up a number of favorite units in the old time annual. One of these was athletics, another organizations.

THIS YEAR the athletic events which lend themselves to chronicle will be found in the section labeled succinctly, "An Album of Events." But there is another mass of material which can not be placed in the event calendar. That is the album of athletic teams. Nor was it feasible to enter all these pictures in the Faculty and Organization section where they logically belong. For here the album section was devoted entirely to faculty pictures, the organizations being shown in group pictures.

TO AVOID AS MUCH confusion as possible, and to place these albums in a rightfully conspicuous place, it was determined to enlarge the Features section, which has always been too small a division to merit an individual title page, and here to place the individual pictures of the members of the teams. In order to be consistent all teams who competed in inter-collegiate contests were included, as well as one or two additional groups worthy of especial mention. For complete athletic calendars, and for pictures of contestants in both men's and women's intramural contests, those interested are referred to the chronologically arranged "Album of Events."—THE EDITOR.

OLD NORMAL'S CHAMPIONSHIP CROSS-COUNTRY TEAM

ILLINOIS STATE NORMAL University's championship cross-country team established itself as one of the strongest teams in the middle west by winning the Loyola Invitational meet and the "Little Nineteen" conference title.

In winning the latter title at the meet held in Normal, the team established a new low score record in the conference with a total of seventeen points. At Loyola the team from Old Normal defeated the best this part of the country could offer.

The men from Old Normal, in scheduled meets, defeated such strong teams as those from Illinois College, Wheaton, Elmhurst, and the University of Chicago.

Such stars as Hutton, Fricke, Wallace, Bremer and Captain Johnson made up the Redbird team. Hutton was undefeated in competition throughout the season, in the Chicago meet, taking the measure of Kelly, star of the Big Ten.

Cross-country racing is a comparatively new sport here, but under the direction of Coach Cogdal its teams have won state-wide recognition.

THE JUNIOR VARSITY BASKETBALL SQUAD

Illinois State Normal University's Junior Varsity basketball team went through a good season, playing against, and defeating, such teams as three of the other state Normal Schools can produce, being victorious in games against Eastern Teachers College, Western Teachers College, and Southern Normal University.

The Junior Varsity teams were organized to give more men a chance in intercollegiate competition. At the same time new material, which may still need grooming for the Varsity Red Bird squad, is given a chance to perform.

THE UNIVERSITY'S CHAMPION INDOOR TRACK AND FIELD TEAM

NORMAL'S INDOOR Track and Field Team, champions of the "Little Nineteen" Conference, won the Classic at Naperville, March eleventh, by outscoring such contenders as Bradley and North Central with a total of forty-four points.

To win the title nine men in all broke into the scoring column. Hutton was high point man for Normal, with firsts in the half-mile and mile events, and second in the two-mile race. Fricke placed first in the two-mile, and second in the mile. James Johnson and Walter Murray placed first and second respectively in the sixty-yard dash.

HUBBEL TIED for second in the pole vault, and Bremer came through for a third in the half mile. Marvin Nicol and Mitts placed third and fourth in the quarter. The relay team, composed of Mitts, Murray, Marvin Nicol and Melvin Nicol, brought home a third.

The indoor team also held the strong University of Chicago team to a fifty-eight to forty-six score. The victories of Hutton, Wallace and Fricke over the Chicago stars in the distance runs, and the defeat of Brooks of Chicago at the hands of Johnson and Murray of Normal were impressive.

THE VARSITY tennis team started the 1932 season well fortified with material. The letter-men back were Wardell, Goff Sweet and Distler; new men of promise were Muhl and Emons.

The varsity season opened with Shurtleff college. here April twenty-fifth. Normal lost a close meet to the Upper Alton school by a four-to-three score. In the second meet of the season with Wesleyan the Normal team again had to be content with the short end of a five-to-two score.

The Redbirds broke into the victory column at Charleston by defeating the Eastern Teachers five to two.

Seeming to have hit its stride in the Charleston meet, the team made a better showing the latter part of the season.

IN THE LITTLE NINETEEN net meet held at Galesburg, Illinois, May 14, Sweet and Goff reached the singles finals. Sweet defaulted in the final round and Goff was declared Little Nineteen Singles Tennis Champion for 1932.

C R Y S T A L      G A Z I N G

SUBSIDIZED BY student fees the two student publications have flourished in the past several years. But there are many possibilities for improvement: the annual today is chiefly a pictorial catalog of faces. Much of the expense and engraving in such a catalog might be avoided. On the other hand the hasty amateur journalism which school newspapers resort to neither seeks nor desires more than passing consideration. Consequently it would be foolhardy to spend all the money set aside for student publications on either annual or newspaper as they now exist. Besides the advantages of two publications are many.

A weekly journal publishes reasonably accurate, timely news, but even its best accounts lack perspective which time lends to happenings. Then the cheapness of the paper stock, the manner of distribution, and the careless way in which the newspaper is disposed of soon after it is read are little incentive for craftsman-like writings. But as a journal for gathering facts, the school weekly is without an equal.

On the other hand, to a real craftsman the opportunity of having one's creative work appear in a bound volume is incentive to labour, to the re-writing and revising of work, and to the careful consideration of every thought expressed. For the writer trying to learn his craft the annual in this respect has a decided advantage over the newspaper. But for that matter, so does a quarterly publication.

WITH THAT IDEA IN mind it is not hard to visualize a publication similar in part to a well-edited yearbook event calendar, to which supplementary material has been added, issued every quarter under the name "Index." These quarterly sections could be ordered and distributed as the Vidette is now circulated, with each person given the option of receiving his quarterly at the term's end, or the three issues bound between stiff boards at the end of the school year.

In this publication emphasis would naturally be on student activities. The tiresome galleries of photographs of faces, the posed organization pictures, stereotyped art work, all these would slough off. The interesting part of student life, the events which happen throughout the year, unusual camera angles of instructors in class, students at work or at play, these would comprise the major part of the new publication. Yet it need not be frivolous. In the field of event recording there is room for definite creative endeavor. Evidence of this are the action pictures of the athletic teams, the pictures of the theatre events in this year's album. Copies of such a publication would make valuable reference material for school and college libraries.

TWO SUCH publications should have an active Managing Editor, perhaps a faculty member, who could secure departmental aid in preparing the quarterly, and one who could keep unified the divers records entered. The actual executive work should be in the hands of two student editorial directors.

Under this system the two organs on the campus could continue without even a change in name, and the Vidette with little change in method of news gathering, but with vastly improved paper stock, and format and illustrations of magazine quality. It would even be possible to publish the weekly in color if certain standard designs were established.

The Index material would be more than a digest of Vidette material, even as "Time" is more than a digest of the news. The material in the quarterly would have a unity which even a bound volume of the Vidette could not approach.

IT would be most fitting for Old Normal, pioneer Illinois school, to experiment with two such student publications; they would bring credit to the school.

THE EDITORS

MARVIN JOHN NICOL	Vidette Editor
Experience—Two Years	Senior
HENRY H. SMITH	Index Editor
Experience—Four Years	Senior

THE TWO publication staffs during the past year have co-operated to a marked degree. This, perhaps, resulted from the fact that positions similar in nature on both publications have been filled by the same person.

The history which Inez L. Butz prepared for the Index is in part a condensed version of feature stories used in the Vidette. This was purposely arranged.

On each staff Robert B. Barber held an executive position, although Harry C. Cade was editorial director of the annual.

MELVIN J. NICOL

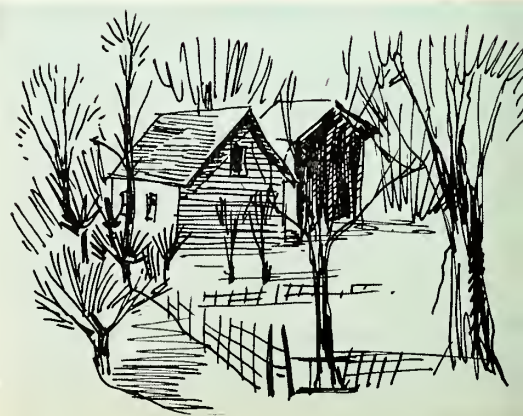

ROBERT B. BARBER

This indicates that much editorial routine is duplicated on the two publications, and to a great extent integration of the staffs under two editorial directors is both desirable and possible.

IN MAY, early in the morning, when the shadows on the campus are still long and the dew still lingers in the shadows, the sun paints the south facade of Old Main and the Metcalf Training School with dazzling light. This photograph gives only a suggestion of the brilliance of such a scene.

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER TWELFTH

Seven hundred twenty-nine FRESHMEN REGISTERED at Illinois State Normal University; perhaps seven hundred twenty-eight of them are in this picture. As soon as they were registered most of the newcomers were successfully lost in the impressive orientation program arranged for them; some of the wiser ones lost in the Alamo or some place.

MONDAY, SEPTEMBER FOURTEENTH

MONDAY, SEPTEMBER FOURTEENTH

Sixty men and Orval Yarger responded to Coach Hancock's INITIAL CALL FOR FOOTBALL MATERIAL. A larger coaching staff made it possible for two teams to represent Old Normal in regular schedules. Coaches Hancock and Frye groomed the varsity squad, and Coach Hill directed the work of a Junior Varsity. The purpose of this second team was to develop players not yet ready for varsity competition. Coach Hancock came to Normal from Osbkosh, where he had built a number of championship teams. Coach Frye later joined the coaching staff when it was found that one man could not take care of so large a turn-out.

Backfield men who looked good at the first of the season were Brunnett, Adams, Kubjuss and Neill; Linemen Arnold, Striegel, Dennis, Raymond, Rubush, Gaynor, and Teomax.

FELL HALL PARTY

FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER EIGHTEENTH

The upper-classmen eventually met the Faculty at the PARTY GIVEN IN FELL HALL. The bass drum of Mike Ryan's orchestra, for some cryptic reason was given place of honor when time came to pose for a picture of the affair.

ALL SCHOOL DANCE

FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER TWENTY-FIFTH

The Women's League and Varsity Club joined in giving the FIRST ALL SCHOOL DANCE of the year. This dance was so well attended that the crowd was moved to the men's large gymnasium. Thanks to the strong-man act of Tiny Schubart, who moved the piano, the orchestra was able to play in the same room with the dancers.

SATURDAY, OCTOBER THIRD

Coach Hancock introduced his football team to the students in the opening game with DeKalb. Here Brunnett, Neill and Swartzbaugh attempt to break up a DeKalb pass from Mustapha to Dudley, which was successfully completed for a twenty-five yard gain. The final score was DeKalb 12, Normal 0.

WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER TWENTY-THIRD

The Art Clubbers gaily tripped out to Forest Park for a picnic supper of the usual indigestibles.

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER TWENTY-SIXTH

The Faculty members and their families picnicked.

WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER THIRTIETH

Perhaps ten per cent of the apathetic student body was interested enough to vote in the student fall election.

SATURDAY, OCTOBER THIRD

The Varsity Club put on its first dance. Harold Legg's orchestra made the music Normal's "400" attended this en masse.

THURSDAY, OCTOBER EIGHTH

Athletic stock at Old Normal sold a few points higher following the stag party sponsored by the Athletic Board, with Cbet Dillon as main speaker, and the omnipresent band as featured entertainment. See the tuba!

SATURDAY, OCTOBER TENTH

Coach Cogdal held CROSS-COUNTRY TRYOUTS in which thirty men participated. The purpose of the trials was to determine the men who would represent Normal University in her opening meet with Wheaton. Of the thirty candidates, Hutton, Wallace, Fricke, Captain Johnson, Bremer, Shea, Foster, Middleton, Muhl, Homann, and Starr showed the most promise.

SATURDAY, OCTOBER TENTH

Quarterback Adams here takes final instructions from Coaches Hancock and Frye before entering the KNOX-NORMAL GAME at Galesburg. Normal was defeated in the final quarter of this game, after out-playing the Knox team for three quarters. The score was Knox 7, Normal 0.

Homann and Foster in the tryouts mentioned above gave indications that they would be LIKELY CANDIDATES FOR THE VARSITY cross-country team by finishing among the first ten.

FRIDAY, OCTOBER SIXTEENTH

The Women's League held its first DANCE FOR ALL THE WOMEN in school. Each person who attended wore a distinctive type of head dress. It was a rule. Men were barred from this dance, possibly because they had very little hair to dress.

SATURDAY,
OCTOBER
SEVENTEENTH

The Normal University CROSS-COUNTRY TEAM DEFEATED WHEATON in the inaugural meet of the season by a score impressively one-sided, 19-44.

SATURDAY, OCTOBER SEVENTEENTH

FRIDAY, OCTOBER TWENTY-THIRD

Tommy Neill, Normal halfback, is seen being stopped by the Eureka safety man after a substantial gain through the line. Arnold, Normal guard, is seen in the background. NORMAL LOST TO EUREKA 12-0 in a hard fought game.

FRIDAY, OCTOBER TWENTY-THIRD

Wallace and Fricke, Normal cross-country stars, here are seen finishing abreast for second and third places behind Hutton in the dual meet with Illinois College. Smith of Illinois College is to be seen dimly in the background finishing a poor fourth. NORMAL WON THE MEET 18-46.

At the end of the season, he was named by many sports writers for the center position on the conference all-star team.

OCTOBER
TWENTY-NINTH

NORMAL University students, loyal, energetic, fell into the spirit of Homecoming early and held a pep meeting and snake dance, which wound down North Street to Broadway, across Sugar Creek and up to the Dean's home; later turned up at the Cogdal residence on Linden Street, then up town, where ex-cheer-leaders, Walker and Bova, led some yells in front of the Green Goblin. The Snake officially broke up after that, but segments stayed up most of the night talking about Friday night's play and dance, Saturday's parade and games. THE MEETING began around the early-comers shown in the above picture, but by the time the Snake dance started half the student body had joined the fun.

FRIDAY, OCTOBER THIRTIETH
The University Theatre presented Your Uncle Dudley to a packed house of students and Old Grads. The entire cast in the Friday night performance made their local college debut. Preceding the play President Brown in a brief curtain speech welcomed the alumni and friends of the University.

SATURDAY, OCTOBER THIRTY-FIRST

The Homecoming Play was presented again, this time by the Senior College cast, to the largest audience ever attending a play at Normal. The widespread interest in dramatics at Normal University this year made possible the double casting of this play.

THE PLAYERS

SATURDAY, OCTOBER THIRTY-FIRST

Dick Marshall's syncopassion was so popular that every one returned to the dance as soon as the play was over. This picture certainly bears that statement out.

HOBO PARADE

Marshall Melvin Nicol, sure-seated horseman, cleared the way for the marchers... Next came the band, but that comes later here... The corn-decorated float of the Maize Grange followed... Following this came a Make-shift Prairie Schooner and Squire Yarger!... "Driving" the Philadelphian Buggy

If it had been sunny the Normal University band would have been decked out like this...but it looked like rain... The Art Club section was preceded by the banner shown here... Next came Preston Ensign, and after him "ART"... The Band really looked like this, but don't let them see the picture...

The Kindergarten Club, with a group of fifty marchers, presented a Hobo Wedding to win first prize in the Hobo Parade . . .

Who let you in again? the parade's over . . .

The parade did a fine job of whetting appetites for more Homecoming, without wetting anyone's spirits . . . it only looked like rain. The next event, watched by a large crowd if the pictures on the next page aren't lying, was the Varsity-Alumni Hockey game, an annual event for the Women in the Physical Education department . . . After that practically everyone began to feel quite a bit the way the above figure looks . . .

Parade in the morning . . . Hockey along toward noon . . . Luncheons, banquets, reunions of old Homecomers and young Homecomers . . . and then the football game!

SATURDAY,
OCTOBER
THIRTY-FIRST

THE BULLEY! Here is shown the start of the Varsity-Alumni annual hockey match which takes place immediately following the parade on Homecoming week-end. Alumni won 3 to 1.

SATURDAY,
OCTOBER
THIRTY-FIRST

Just as this picture was made Holder, Southern quarterback, was stopped by Raymond, Normal guard, as the Carbondale man tried to gain through the line in the Homecoming game.

SATURDAY, OCTOBER THIRTY-FIRST

SATURDAY, OCTOBER THIRTY-FIRST

SATURDAY,
OCTOBER
THIRTY-FIRST

In the cross-country meet with Elmhurst at Homecoming, Middleton and Shea staged one of the most spectacular finishes of the season, placing fifth and sixth in the meet. Hutton and Bremer placed first and second, Normal winning by a score of 18 to 37.

SUNDAY, NOVEMBER FIRST

THIRD

The Oxford debaters brought a new kind of debating to the Illinois State Normal University auditorium, giving everyone a pleasant good evening, getting perhaps not so much debating done, but what of it?

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER SEVENTH

LEFT: In the dual meet with Illinois College at Jacksonville, Wallace and Fricke are shown finishing abreast to tie for second and third. Normal won by a score of 19 to 39.

WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER ELEVENTH

Armistice Day was remembered with an assembly program at which Professor G. M. Palmer spoke. The memorial stone on the campus was also the scene of tribute being paid to the war dead. A wreath was placed on the stone.

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER THIRTEENTH

The Varsity Club closed dance for pledges marked the high spot for dances given by organizations. Clever decorations and the music of Harold Legg's orchestra made the evening a decided success.

SATURDAY,
NOVEMBER
FOURTEENTH

In the cross-country meet with the University of Chicago, Kelly, Big Ten star, is pictured in a strong finish for second behind Hutton. Normal defeated the Chicago team 21 to 36. Stage fright didn't bother them at all in their first competition with a Big Ten team.

FRIDAY,
NOVEMBER TWENTIETH

the band dance.*

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER TWENTY-FIRST

The "Little Nineteen" cross-country meet was held at Normal, and resulted in the Redbird team taking the first four places and placing seventh and ninth as well.

SATURDAY,
TWENTY-FIRST

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER TWENTY-FIRST

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER TWENTY-FIRST

All the boys who were nice to Fell Hall girls during the last week or two were given invitations to the Fell Hall fall term dance.

INTRAMURAL WINNERS

CHAMPION INTRAMURAL CROSS-COUNTRY TEAM

HOLLYHAWKS, INTRAMURAL TOUCH-FOOTBALL CHAMPIONS

SATURDAY, DECEMBER TWELFTH

The Junior Class All-School Dance

SATURDAY, DECEMBER TWELFTH

Junior class was host to the school at a dance in the Old Castle. This was the first college dance staged in this building during the year. New faculty members were guests at the dance.

MONDAY, DECEMBER SEVENTH

Fourteen hundred seventy-six students tried out a new plan of registration and . . . liked it!

TUESDAY, DECEMBER EIGHTH

One hundred three people and Wilbur Reece lost term fee receipts!

WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER NINTH

Dr. Hieronymus, of the University of Illinois, spoke to the members of the Hieronymus club.

THURSDAY, DECEMBER TENTH

FRIDAY, DECEMBER ELEVENTH

Commerce Club caught the spirit of practically everybody's letters from home, and held a "Depression Party."

SATURDAY, DECEMBER TWELFTH

Women's Athletic Association held a "Kid Party" at the McCormick Gymnasium.

WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER SIXTEENTH

Women's Physical Education Club gave a dance recital at the McCormick Gymnasium.

THURSDAY, DECEMBER SEVENTEENTH

Athletic Board banqueted all football and cross-country men at the Y.W.C.A. Robert Brumett was elected captain of the 1932 football team; Lloyd Fricke, captain of the 1932 harriers.

FRIDAY, DECEMBER EIGHTEENTH

Christmas vacation began at two-thirty. In the evening the Redbirds tromped on the strong La Crosse outfit, 24 to 18.

TUESDAY, DECEMBER TWENTY-SECOND

Normal went east to Bluffton, Ohio, and defeated the college team there, 44 to 32.

TUESDAY, DECEMBER TWENTY-NINTH

In the game with Chicago Y College at McCormick Gymnasium Captain Moore and "Pim" Goff ran wild to score twenty-five of the thirty-two points Normal had at the end of the game. Chicago Y made twenty points.

FRIDAY, JANUARY FIRST

Central Normal from Indiana played the Redbirds here, the final score being 36 to 33, with Normal on the long end of the score in one of the best games of the season.

MONDAY, JANUARY FOURTH

Three boys got money for Christmas and rode back to the state school in state (on the train). Everybody else? They rode back on their thumbs. Where would collegiate transportation be without thumbs?

WEDNESDAY, JANUARY THIRTEENTH

Coach Cogdal refused to let the basketball team go through the state hospital until after the Illinois College game. But they won anyway, 41 to 26.

SATURDAY, JANUARY NINTH

Evidently the pre-season games put the team into good shape, for they whipped their first conference opponent, Western Teachers, 52 to 26.

THE WOMEN'S
SWIMMING SQUAD

The W.A.A. swimming class, directed by Miss Brown, entered the telegraphic swimming meet sponsored by the Dolphin club of the University of Wisconsin. The meet consisted of the following events: Forty yard crawl, forty yard back, forty yard breast, one hundred yard free style, one hundred yard crawl.

In each event the time made by the upper ten girls was recorded. No girl was allowed to enter more than two events, but a school could enter in any number of them. The times made by the contestants were telegraphed into headquarters by the first of April. Illinois State Normal entered two of these events. Marjory Cook placed first in the back crawl in the colleges under a thousand women and eighth in the colleges over a thousand women. In the forty-yard crawl she placed third in the class of the smaller colleges.

The University of Illinois won first place in the meet. Other girls who participated in this meet were Jessie Marie Lucas, Jean Wilder, Rachel Noe, Doris LaMaster, Eleanor Miller, Phyllis Ward and Ada Jane Carter.

THE VARSITY CLUB
SERVICE

The Stage as It Appeared After the Service

THE MUSICIANS AND SPEAKERS AT THE SERVICE

SUNDAY AFTERNOON, December thirteenth, the Varsity Club presented its annual Christmas Service. The stage was decorated with Christmas trees tinsel-hung and lighted with colored lamps. A white-stone plaque of the Madonna and Child occupied the center of the stage. The Reverend J. Walter Malone of the McKinley Foundation delivered the address. The Women's Glee Club, under the direction of Miss Boicourt, presented special music for the occasion.

Mrs. S. J. Reeder was organist, and a quartet composed of Mrs. Harry Admire, Mrs. Roy Ramseyer, DeWitt Miller and Mr. Harris White sang several selections.

DR. H. A. BROWN, president of the University, presided. The chairman of the committee in charge of arrangements was Chandler Brown. The following week the Women's League presented a Christmas Musical each noon in the auditorium, amidst the seasonal surroundings.

Miss Ruth Gerard, organist, the Men's and Women's Glee clubs, and Joe Castle, violinist, each gave one of the four recitals.

THE BELL IN THE CLOCK TOWER

EXACTLY, but it might only have been, approximately, twelve midnight on the night of December thirty-first the big bronze bell in the leaning tower of Normal stirred itself aggressively, and knocked out twelve loud strokes. It was a New Year's Eve demonstration by a bell celebrating perhaps its fiftieth such affair.

Then it lapsed into silence for thirty minutes. When it struck the half hour past twelve on the New Year's morning of 1932 there was perhaps not so much of gladness in its ring. It was merely starting another year of work at the tedious task of marking time. All of which is most pathetic fallacy.

SATURDAY, JANUARY NINTH

The Art Club gave a Palm Beach dance, combining snow-shoes, overcoats and white flannels, all unintentionally of course, to make it a grand affair.

THE VARSITY CLUB DANCE

SATURDAY, JANUARY SIXTEENTH

Normal defeated Charleston in one of the better games of the year, by a score of 28 to 24.

Immediately following the game the Varsity Club presented a dance. Two bands, alternated their playing to furnish an evening of continuous music. Mike Ryan and Mendal Riley vied with each other to see which could play the snappiest fox trot, and the dreamiest waltz.

FRIDAY, JANUARY TWENTY-SECOND

Normal suffered the first defeat of the season, and the first in twenty-four consecutive starts. DeKalb's cold-hearted strategy enabled them to win by the close score of 16 to 14.

MONDAY, JANUARY TWENTY-FIFTH

The Vidette appeared with a rotogravure section. Just another example of the co-operation between the two publications was the fact that the Index Editor printed half the edition of the rotogravure section.

TUESDAY, JANUARY TWENTY-SIXTH

In the basketball game with Illinois Wesleyan in their Memorial Gymnasium Coach Cogdal realized a life ambition and defeated Wesleyan at football! Score: 30 to 29 (it was the point after touchdown that won).

WEDNESDAY, JANUARY TWENTY-SEVENTH

The Women's League held a tea in Miss Barton's office to honor participants in the Phil-Wright contest two days away.

WEDNESDAY, JANUARY TWENTY-SEVENTH

St. Olaf's Choir entertained the Normal student body in a lecture course program in Capen Auditorium. The lecture board held a reception in Fell Hall for the singers immediately following the program.

MONDAY, JANUARY ELEVENTH

The County Superintendents' Conference was held at Normal University, and the members were dinner guests of President Brown at Fell Hall that evening.

TUESDAY, JANUARY NINETEENTH

The Redbird team lost the lead in the first half, and had to come from behind to beat Eureka 30 to 19 at the final gun.

WEDNESDAY, JANUARY TWENTIETH

Don Cossacks, a male chorus led by Serge Jaroff, gave one of the most impressive concerts of the season to a small but responsive audience in Capen Auditorium.

THURSDAY, JANUARY TWENTY-EIGHTH

Miss Lakin, instructor in dancing and sponsor of Orchesis, gave a dance recital in the women's gymnasium. The program included a number of dances prepared especially for the occasion.

SATURDAY, JANUARY THIRTIETH

Women's League All-School Dance. This affair was held in the McCormick Gymnasium, approximately a hundred couples were there.

FRIDAY, JANUARY TWENTY-SECOND

For everyone who stayed at Normal during the DeKalb game the Sophomores cutertained in style in the women's gymnasium beneath decorations of exceptional beauty, hung under the direction of Howard Otting.

FRIDAY, FEBRUARY NINETEENTH

The Varsity Club held a G. Washington dance at Fell Hall. The Punch Bowl, made of ice, was the center of attraction.

SATURDAY, FEBRUARY SIXTH

A basket, in the last minute of play by "Pim" Goff, enabled Normal to nose out Carbondale 31 to 29 on the home floor.

SATURDAY, FEBRUARY SIXTH

The Women's Athletic Association gave a Palm Beach Party with the Illinois Wesleyan W.A.A. as their guests. Sena Sampson's orchestra furnished the music for the event.

TUESDAY, FEBRUARY NINTH

Fighting Redbirds withstood the last minute rally of DeKalb to win a hectic game by the lopsided score of 39 to 28. This was quite a different story from the cold game up "North."

FRIDAY, FEBRUARY TWELFTH

Commerce Club held a party in the Old Castle. This affair was for members only.

SATURDAY, FEBRUARY THIRTEENTH

State Normal defeated Eureka the second time in the season when the Red Devils took the count to the score of 31 to 21.

SATURDAY, FEBRUARY THIRTEENTH

Pictures and an account of the Fell Hall Formal dance will be found on page 227.

SUNDAY, FEBRUARY FOURTEENTH

The Lecture Board presented Edward Eigenschenk in a Sunday afternoon organ recital.

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY EIGHTEENTH

Theta Alpha Phi and Jesters presented two one-act plays, "Rich Man, Poor Man," and "The Short Cut." Pictures of one of these plays will be found on page 227.

MONDAY, FEBRUARY TWENTY-SECOND

(For the Freshmen).

TUESDAY, FEBRUARY TWENTY-THIRD

(For the Upperclassmen).

As Normal University's contribution to the George Washington Bi-centennial celebration an elaborate assembly program was arranged for the two groups.

TUESDAY, FEBRUARY TWENTY-THIRD

The women's negative debate team jogged down to Wheaton and took the short end of the decision.

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY TWENTY-FIFTH

Theta Alpha Phi and Jesters present two one-act plays, "Cabbages" and the "Lost Elevator." Pictures of these plays may be found on page 238.

FRIDAY, FEBRUARY TWENTY-SIXTH

THE NORMAL SCHOOL TOURNAMENT! (Pictures on page 228.)

W.A.A. sponsored the first dance of the tournament in the north gymnasium. The decorations were mostly pennants in the colors of each Normal School. Flashy spot-lighting added to the effectiveness of the decorations.

SATURDAY, FEBRUARY TWENTY-SEVENTH

THE NORMAL SCHOOL TOURNAMENT.

The "N" club, using somewhat the same scheme and Dale Miller's band, put over a highly successful dance to close the two-day basketball session which DeKalb won hands down. (Picture on page 229.)

TUESDAY, MARCH FIRST

The Choral Club, with some ninety members present, showed the assemblies what combined effort and practice will do in group singing. In co-operation with the orchestra under one director, they presented a group of numbers that were appreciated by the student body.

The Edwards Medal and Livingston Cup contest.

FRIDAY, MARCH FOURTH

The teachers went to institute, while the student body enjoyed the brain-factory holiday.

ONE-ACT PLAYS

Final Scene, "Rich Man, Poor Man"

"RICH MAN, POOR MAN"
"THE SHORT CUT"
"THE LOST ELEVATOR"
"CABBAGES"

Wednesday evening, February seventeenth, the first group of one-act plays was presented in Capen Auditorium. "The Short Cut," by Percival Wilde, a play concerning a mine disaster in which two men were trapped, was given. The staging and lighting were exceptionally well done.

"Rich Man, Poor Man," the second of this group of plays, had for its plot the winning of Emma, who insisted on running a "Thrift Shop" and not being won.

In "The Lost Elevator" the plot centered about a lover's trick to gain the favour of his estranged sweetheart. Having succeeded in getting the elevator stalled between floors in an office building, he also is successful in persuading his sweetheart to give him "Just One More Chance."

"Cabbages" was a play of German farm-folk, who suddenly become wealthy, what with oil this and that, whereupon the wife immediately wants to do some social climbing. This play was written in the Northwestern University Playshop.

SATURDAY, FEBRUARY THIRTEENTH

THE FELL HALL FORMAL DANCE

This dance, one of the most impressive events of the winter social calendar, was staged in the spacious first floor of Fell Hall.

Second may be seen the dancers, who for the most part were dancing in the dining room, which was converted for the evening into an excellent ballroom. The orchestra was situated on the east side of this room, and the third picture reveals what a musician playing for the dance might have seen if he didn't keep his eyes glued to the music.

And last of all . . . "Goodnight," "It was wonderful!" . . . formalities concluding the "Formal" . . .

State Normal's varsity basketball team went through a schedule of fourteen conference games to place second with eleven wins. Normal's string of consecutive victories mounted to twenty-four games during the season. They also boast a record of three consecutive years with no conference defeats on the home court.

THE W.A.A. INTRAMURAL PROGRAM

The intramural board, consisting of Thurley Voelkel, Helen Jones, Margaret Purcell, and Miss Berneice Frey, sponsor, which was created, made possible the extensive sports program this year. Accounts of the winners, and team or squad pictures of the Fall term intramural and Varsity players will be found in the Autumn section of the Event Album.

Competition was held in hockey, soccer, basketball, bowling, ping-pong, baseball, track, and tennis. Intramural letters were awarded to winning teams if the player had been present at at least three-fourths of the games.

During the Fall term the Association sponsored weekly social dancing classes for beginners in dancing.

INTRAMURAL BASKETBALL CHAMPIONS

BASKETBALL GAMES

Some of the best games of the season were seen when the championship was a tie between School Street and North Street. In the first game School Street won by a score of 21-20. The teams were so evenly matched that the decision was a matter of luck. The following evening North Street, captained by "Peg" Purcell, came back to defeat School Street 20-19 again putting the teams in a tie position.

School Street, however, was able by the crack shooting of Betty Baird, to defeat North Street and cop the championship by a score of 27-14.

THE HEADS OF SPORTS

CHAMPION BOWLING TEAM

The team: Royse, Sutton, Voelkel, Abner.

Bowling was a popular sport this winter, many girls came out who had never bowled before. A tournament was held and Team II won—undefeated during the season.

Ping-pong was given for the first time. Ten participants entered the tournament which was won by Carrie Vogt.

DECORATIONS AT TOURNAMENT DANCE

Miss Ruth Walker's oration won first place in the Annual Oratorical Contest, held in Capen Auditorium March second. The other orators were Elinor Johnson and Percy Downey.

In Dramatic Reading Glenn Taylor was given first place, although the three judges gave each a first, a second and a third. The winning reading was a cutting from "Journey's End."

The extempore speech of Dora Lutz Nu Delman was judged best. Other contestants were Helen Beckenholdt and Inez L. Butz.

The Edwards medals were prizes in Oratory and Dramatic Reading; The Livingston Cup in Extempore speaking.

THE PICTURES

The Gamma Phi tumblers are shown in a series of pyramids which they made during the Gamma Phi Circus, which was given the evening of March eleventh in McCormick Gymnasium. The one at the top was made on parallel bars, the other three were not.

Enthusiastic crowds were on hand to witness the first annual Gamma Phi Circus at McCormick Gymnasium Friday evening, March 11. Jake Ward served capably in the capacity of ring-master.

Carl Unzicker proved his versatility by stunning the audience with his tumbling, pyramiding and flying. Russell Carter showed his skill on the rings, flying ladder and parallel bars.

Melvin Story led his World's Review Zouaves through various maneuvers in grand style. This company consisted of Huff, Ragelin, Clover, Dyer, Lafferty, Robinson, DeBow, Forbes, Christner, Samp, Eades, Barton, Smith, Morris, Eggenberger and Hall.

A dancing act, featuring Rose Simmons and Betty Dallman, was included in the program. They were followed by ten girls of the Women's Physical Education Department, who did some excellent tap-dancing. They were Wolff, Voelkel, Denzer, Nelson, LaMaster, Lucas, States, Noe, Hoskins and Harmon.

WRESTLING CHAMPIONS

INTRAMURAL BOXING EXHIBITION

Smolak and Shaver are shown staging a no decisioning and Wrestling Tournament at McCormick Gymnasium, March ninth. It was through intramural competition that such boxing stars as Baker, Smolak, Winebrenner, Raymond and Murdock were able to exhibition boxing bout at the Annual Intramural Box-nasium, March ninth. It was through intramural Shea, Neill and Striegel and such wrestling stars as develop.

HOLLY HAWKS, INTRAMURAL WINNERS

GAMMA PHI, INTRAMURAL WINNERS

THE GAMMA PHI TUMBLERS

For the third year this group appeared at the Peoria Y.M.C.A. Annual Circus Thursday, March Thirty-first.

INTRAMURAL BASKETBALL CONTENDERS

Sixteen teams entered the intramural basketball league, School Street and North Street teams being divisional winners.

School Street defeated North Street for the championship.

Saturday morning, March twelfth, at two o'clock, the watchman discovered a fire in the north corridor in the lower floor of the Manual Arts Building. Previously fires of incendiary origin had completely destroyed two public buildings in Bloomington, threatened several others, and extra guards had been placed on the Normal University campus. The fire had only time enough to burn a hole in the floor, and crack the plaster from the ceiling above, before it was found and extinguished. No insurance is carried on state buildings, and none of the three connected buildings, Manual Arts, Old Main and Metcalf Training School would have escaped serious damage if the fire had gained headway.

SATURDAY, MARCH FIFTH

The tenth anniversary banquet of Mu chapter of Kappa Delta Pi was held at the Y.W.C.A. in Bloomington. Forty-five people attended this reunion, at which Anne Brittin, Mrs. Emma Blackburn, Beatrice Griffin, William Azbell, Carl Marquardt, and Margaret Ekstrand were initiated. All of the former presidents of the chapter occupied the stations during the initiation. The scheme of light blue and scarlet, the colors of the national organization, was carried out throughout the entire affair.

By Wednesday of the week following Saturday, March nineteenth, the crocuses were out and blooming. They had been peeking out for more than a week, but not until Easter holiday did they really open. Then, of course, the weather turned cold; sleet and snow blew in; even the leaf-tips of the sturdy crocus plants were killed . . . Spring was here!

UNIVERSITY CHORAL CLUB

This group gave concerts in the two assemblies, Monday, February twenty-ninth, and Tuesday, March first.

SATURDAY, MARCH NINETEENTH

Approximately one thousand Normal co-eds board trains and buses to show the home folks their new Easter bonnets.

CLOCK TOWER SUPPORTS

SATURDAY, MARCH NINETEENTH

During Easter vacation the work of repairing Old Main began in earnest. Steel supports were placed up on the foundation running to the clock tower. This corrected the "Pisa" effect of the tower. New fire escapes were added on the north and south porches of the building. These are the supports in the Study Hall.

A SILVERY APRIL SHOWER

The pictures of the one-act plays were taken from the Auditorium during their performance by Henry H. Smith.

WEDNESDAY, MARCH SECOND

"The Black Flamingo," a melodrama, the plot of which centers about hidden jewels in the fireplace of the dining room in the Black Flamingo Inn on the road to Paris.

In the accompanying pictures many of the characters in the play are shown at dramatic moments.

Upper left: Bourrier, Bodier and Gavroche, three cursing, cowardly rogues, plot to despoil the nobles lodged in the Black Flamingo.

Third row right: Bodier, the inn-keeper, and his shrewish wife are in perpetual quarrel. Their one common interest, a desire to find the jewels, is all that keeps them together.

Lower left: The lost elevator goes down fifty-eight floors . . . just for love. This was one of a group of one-act plays presented by the University Theatre, February twenty-fifth.

Lower right: Behind the scenes the grease paint goes on . . . and on . . . and . . . on. "Cabbages," another one-act play, presented by the University Theatre.

THURSDAY, MARCH SEVENTEENTH

Intramural boxing and wrestling tournament. Those interested will find an account of this event on page 232.

FRIDAY, APRIL FIRST

Normal women took advantage of leap year. The Women's League and the Varsity Club jointly sponsored a leap year dance in the women's gym.

SATURDAY, APRIL SECOND

Normal University sponsored one of the fourteen sub-district contests in the music and literary events for Illinois state high schools.

TUESDAY, APRIL FIFTH

The women of the school met in Capen Auditorium and listened to Mrs. E. A. Turner tell of the advantages a student has on the Normal campus. The men met in the old study hall and sang old time songs under Mr. Admire's direction. The resulting barber shop chords were not one of the advantages mentioned by Mrs. Turner. Mr. Williams read French poetry but insisted that he was not a Canuck.

WEDNESDAY, APRIL SIXTH

Doctor McGovern of Northwestern University lectured to the student body on Manchuria.

FRIDAY, APRIL EIGHTH

State Normal was host to the college league of women voters. The banquet was held at the Presbyterian church.

SATURDAY, APRIL NINTH

The League of Women Voters were guests at a tea held at Fell Hall.

The long waited for Junior Prom at last. About two hundred and fifty people took part in that grand old parade known as the promenade, led by Chandler Brown, the president of the junior class.

THURSDAY, APRIL FOURTEENTH

Orchesis presented varied dances in a recital at Capen Auditorium.

CLEAR THE HURDLES

SATURDAY, APRIL SIXTEENTH

The Women's league held a dance for all women in school at the McCormick Gymnasium.

FRIDAY, APRIL TWENTY-SECOND

Old Normal was host again to the high school music, literary, and debate contestants.

SATURDAY, APRIL TWENTY-THIRD

The finals of the district high school literary and musical contests were reached.

SATURDAY, APRIL TWENTY-THIRD

The Sophomores went "Society" and put on a good dance at the country club. Dale Miller's band syncopated with special music and features for the occasion. Buses with dim lights were the mode of transportation to and from the dance.

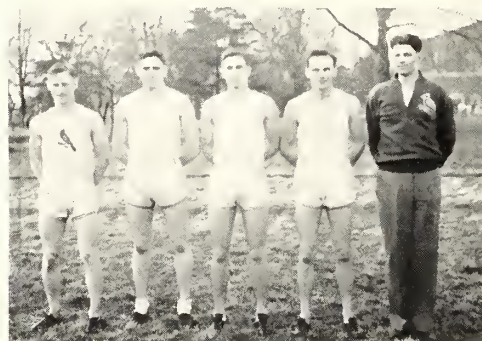

Marquardt (to the left) and Changnon are pictured clearing the high barriers in practice at McCormick Field. Changnon won the High Hurdles at the Wesleyan dual meet and placed third at the Teachers College meet. Marquardt also came in for points in this event, as well as placing in the pole vault.

STATE NORMAL'S 1932 TRACK AND FIELD SQUAD

Upper right: Sweet, Normal tennis star, is seen serving the ball in the Shurtleff meet April twenty-fifth, Shurtleff won by a four to three score.

Middle: Nicol, Hutton, and Mitts are seen coming round the curve in a practice session in preparation for the Wesleyan meet May fifth. Normal won over her old rivals by a sixty-eight and one-half to sixty-two and one-half score.

Lower left: Catcher, Jobiny White, calls for one over the plate from pitcher Harrell in practice sessions at McCormick field.

Lower right: Chaugnon, high hurdler, is seen limbering up for the Wesleyan meet. He won the high hurdles to help defeat Wesleyan.

Pictures by Henry H. Smith

During an editorial conference of the executive members of the Index staff at Hawkins Studio it suddenly occurred to Nicol that in this "Little Spanish Town" there might possibly be a chance to make money buying old clothes for the restaurants that featured flannel cakes. Borrowing a derby he stole some woolen coats, and then attempted to chisel Senorita Corringtona for her ample shawl.

Seizing the opportunity and a Salvation Army guitar, J. G. Hawkins provided distracting music, Herr Cade trying not to listen.

The whole situation preyed so on the editor's mind that he cracked under the strain and tried to sell Senorita Corringtona his coat. In the heat of his sales talk he stopped thinking up hard problems for his executive staff and that should have happened oftener.

Spring Football Practice, to acquaint newcomers with Normal's style of play, began April twenty-third, ended May fourteenth.

SATURDAY, APRIL THIRTIETH

Fell Hall went in for a good time, dancing to the music of George Christopher's band.

FRIDAY, MAY SIXTH

The Varsity Club presented its annual stunt show to the second largest crowd at any all-school function held in Capen Auditorium during the school year. The faculty easily walked away with all the prizes presenting the fall of Troy in a bedlam of twenty-four sheets, but the Art Club's stunt won the show for the second year, and the club got to keep the cup!

SATURDAY, MAY SEVENTH

St. Viator and Normal go four innings in the rain before being washed out.

SATURDAY, MAY SEVENTH

The Varsity Club presented their spring dance at Maplewood. A buffet lunch was served in good time, and helped to make the peppy affair a success. Many old grads came back to the campus for this week-end.

SUNDAY, MAY EIGHTH

The Varsity Club held its annual service in honor of Mothers. Doctor Rall of Northwestern University delivered the sermon for the occasion.

WEDNESDAY, MAY ELEVENTH

Finals for the State High School literary, musical, and debate contests got under way. Credit for the successful outcome of this event goes to Dr. Sorenson and Mr. Westhoff. Normal is proud to be host of such a well-managed contest.

THURSDAY, MAY TWELFTH

Sandwich High School debate team defeated Jacksonville High School for the high school debating championship of Illinois.

FRIDAY, MAY THIRTEENTH

An added feature of the contests was the recital given by Dean Dennis of Northwestern University.

Kubfuss, Redbird halfback, is pictured getting off behind perfect interference in a play through tackle in the Wesleyan game played at Normal, November twenty-first.

EVERYONE has heard the time-worn phrase of graduation speakers in which young people are said to be "about to go out-into the world!" This phrase bandied so often and so glibly by persons who already are out-in the world, has confused our artist ever since as a stripling he dozed through his first commencement speech and it droned into his unwilling ear to give him pause. In his groping way he sought to picture the peculiar fourth-dimensional state of mind of anyone about to go at once out-into anything. The resultant illustration, shown below, is a most fitting conclusion to what we have herein attempted.—THE EDITOR.

"Frank should be here; he's so darn good at puzzles!"

This forty-second volume of the Index of Illinois State Normal University was issued to a subscribers' list of nine hundred fifty. The photographs, with minor exceptions, are from Hawkins Studio of Bloomington; the printing plates, without exception, from Stafford's at Indianapolis, where they were produced under the supervision of Owen R. Marsh. The book was printed at Hartman's in Springfield, Illinois, under the personal supervision of Frank J. Meidel, Carl Bahlow, Owen R. Marsh, and Minor L. Smith, and was bound into cases made by Hartman's under the direction of John Kreppert.
